COOLIDGE FEARS PARLEY DOOMED

Forced To Serve Years In Prison By Mistake, Man Harbors No Hatred

JOHN MACK, WRONGFULLY CONVICTED

A convict in a felon's cell,
Guilty or guiltless, who may tell?
For human justice often errs
And fallible her ministers.

—By James Monroe Ritchie, father of the sentencing judge.

By HELEN MOGGE
Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

TOLEDO, O., July 30.—When, in 1922 John Mack stood before Judge Byron F. Ritchie to be sentenced to prison from 17 to 25 years after a bread company payroll hold-up, it seemed to him that his senses had failed him. It was impossible, impossible! He, John, to go to prison for something he did not commit, something he was not guilty of! Never, never!

If only he could awaken, if only there were an end to this nightmare so that he could tell the jurors and

PROBE OF BOAT DISASTER IS UNDER WAY

Declares Captain Is Not To Blame In Boat Disaster

Millionaire Yacht Owner Who Saw Chicago Tragedy Testifies.

DECLARES SQUALL UNPRECEDENTED ONE

Some Other Testimony, However, Not So Favorable To Boat Owners.

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 30.—Testimony to the effect that Captain Arthur Olson, skipper of the ill-fated pleasure boat Favorite which sank in a storm in Lake Michigan on Thursday, drowning 27 passengers, was in no way responsible for the tragedy, was before the investigating bodies today.

This testimony in behalf of Captain Olson was offered by William A. Hofnauer, millionaire yacht owner, who was the outstanding hero of the disaster. Hofnauer's yacht "Doris" was the first to reach the stricken vessel and carried more than fifty survivors to safety.

"Can't Blame Captain."

"I've lived on the water all my life?" said Mr. Hofnauer, "I've sailed the ocean and the lakes. Never in my life have I seen anything like the squall that hit us Thursday and sank the Favorite.

"No one can blame Captain Olson. He did the best he could. The best anyone could have done. In faet, his actions were heroic. Time and again I saw him dive and fight the waves to save his passengers.

"You can't blame the boat either. The storm was just too much for it."

While Mr. Hofnauer unfolded his graphic story of the tragedy which was a strong defense of Captain Olson and his craft, other reports were going into the records that were not so favorable for either. One report was that the boat carried life preservers 17 years old and that it was not adequately equipped with life boats.

Nearly a hundred passengers, mostly women and children picnickers, were aboard the boat at the time. Twenty-seven bodies have been recovered, but eight or ten persons are still missing.

Heroes of Long Flies—Lindy and Walter Johnson

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 30.—Lindbergh is doing great work. He is visiting each town one day, trying to interest people in aviation.

When he gets through it wouldn't be bad to have him visit Washington for at least a week.

Don't get the idea because three of our planes flew to Europe and made it that we are ahead in aviation.

It's not how far can three men fly; but what have you got for the other 110,000,000 to fly in; and where are they to land?

Yours,
WILL.

P. S.—Aug. 2, which is Tuesday, don't forget the national anniversary celebration of Walter Johnson at Washington.

He is the other Swede that Lindbergh copied in showing the world how to be great and still be modest.

Remember the only man in America that stayed a hero for twenty years. ROGERS.

Secretly Taken From State Prison To Face Grand Jury.

INDIANA SCANDAL BEING RE-OPENED

By EUGENE J. CADOU
International News Service Staff Correspondent

INDIANAPOLIS, July 30.—D. C. Stephenson, stormy petrel of Indiana's political scandal, was taken before the Marion county grand jury here today immediately after his secret arrival from the state prison at Michigan City.

The former Indiana klan grand dragon left the state prison, where he is serving a life sentence for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer, Indianapolis girl, during the night and arrived here early today under escort of prison guards.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 30.—D. C. Stephenson today was believed to be on his way from the state prison at Michigan City to Indianapolis, once the seat from which he ruled the state of Indiana, to tell the Marion county grand jury details of his corrupt regime.

Already in possession of the two famous black boxes of the former

Weather Holds Up Captain Courtney In Ocean Flight

(International News Service)

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., July 30.—According to meteorological forecasts bad weather off the British coast and over the eastern Atlantic will last throughout the week-end, preventing Capt. Frank T. Courtney, the British air ace, from starting his trans-ocean flight to New York for at least two more days. Courtney tests his flying boat motors every day while experts keep the radio in perfect working order. He said he would be ready to hop off just as soon as the storms abate.

DRUG STORE IS BOMBED IN CHICAGO

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 30—Chicago's bootleg warfare raged anew today with the bombing of the drug store of Deputy Coroner Joseph Dorfman.

Dorfman, target of death-threat letters for his investigations in connection with 17 fatal gang shootings during the past few weeks, was showered with plaster and debris when the black powder bomb broke over his head.

Three customers in the store sustained slight injuries.

Mystery Attack On Watchman

ATTACK OCCURS NEAR CEMENT PLANT

Ed. Smith, night watchman at the Lehigh-Portland Cement Company, was attacked by an unknown assailant in a mysterious manner last night and is suffering from a knife wound in his left arm.

The attack occurred shortly after nine o'clock; and when Detective William Fleming was notified at one a. m. all trace of the "knifeman" had been lost.

According to the story gathered by Detective Fleming and a state policeman, Smith is employed as a watchman and had gone to a spring near No. 1 plant to get some water.

He filled the bucket and was returning when a man leaped from behind and plunged a knife into his left arm. The attack occurred between No. 1 plant and houses in County Line street.

As darkness had already fallen, it is reported that Smith was not able to see his assailant and knows of no reason why he should be attacked.

Coolidge's Action Sounds Doom Of Naval Conference

By H. K. REYNOLDS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, July 30.— President Coolidge's rejection of the final British proposals at the tri-partite conference is regarded here as sounding the doom of the conference, although in official circles it is stated that there is still hope that "the discussions won't be entirely fruitless."

The immediate reaction of the British press to dispatches from Rapid City stating that the United States cannot accept Great Britains proposals, is to blame President Coolidge for the anticipated breakdown of the conference.

The most disappointing feature of the conference, according to the Daily Telegraph, is the inability of the American delegates to comprehend that the British limitation plan would have fulfilled President Coolidge's purpose besides effecting a great monetary saving than the American proposals.

"If the conference fails it will not be the fault of the British representatives of the government," said the telegraph. "If the British scheme is not acceptable to Washington, it can only be because its true bearings are not fully grasped."

LISTENS TO EXHIBITORS' WOES

Although only recently graduated from college Miss Doris Darmstadter, of Cleveland, O., rapidly is gaining recognition as a veteran campaign worker. As assistant to the director of the Citizen's League she was in the midst of several bitterly contested elections. Now, as headquarters' secretary of the Cleveland Industrial Exposition, she is looking after the needs of the 300 exhibitors. The exposition, August 6-28, is a display of the industries of northern Ohio.

President Is Afraid Parley Not To Succeed

Washington Officials Do Not Believe Session Will Last Over Monday.

BRITISH STAND WRECKS PARLEY

United States Will Not Accept Cruiser Proposal Of Great Britain.

By GEORGE E. DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RAPID CITY, July 30. — President Coolidge today considered with obvious disappointment, the probability that the three-power naval limitation conference will end in failure.

The conference, called at the instance of the President, is his outstanding venture in international diplomacy—a venture the success of which would have given him a firm place in the history of the world disarmament.

Final Word

The final word has gone out of the Black Hills to Geneva under the signature of the Chief Executive that unless Great Britain modifies its proposals to the three-power conference there assembled there can be no hope for a further limitation of naval armaments. This word will be formally conveyed to the representatives of Great Britain and Japan, in plenary session Monday.

Washington Sees End

Washington, July 30.—"It's over."

Even the most optimistic officials admitted today that the tri-partite naval limitation conference probably would not survive longer than the plenary session at Geneva Monday, barring ,of course, and eleventh hour concession by Great Britain.

President Coolidge's warning that the new British proposals are entirely unacceptable to the United States and would result, not in limitation, but in increased armament, is the final American position. The Coolidge administration prefers to come away empty handed from Geneva rather than agree to increased tonnage for cruisers, particularly small cruisers for which the United States has no need.

Would Require Big Expense

The President was informed by naval authorities that Britain's plan would require the expenditure of many millions by the United States to place the American navy on a parity with the British in auxiliary craft. This the President is unwilling to approve, first he wants to cut the naval expenditures, and, second, because he doesn't want the American navy loaded up with ships that would be practically valueless.

The failure of the conference probably will have no immediate effect as far as a naval race for supremacy is concerned, although it is admitted that the administration will be hard put to hold in and the big navy enthusiasts in congress. They are already clamoring for appropriations for more cruisers with the elections approaching the administration is not anxious to engage in a naval spending orgy.

Public Victor In Coal Strike

Coal Production Despite Strike Is Reported As Near Normal.

NO BIG PRICE INCREASE SEEN

By KENNETH CLARK
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30. — The American public has been the victor thus far in the soft coal suspension now entering its fourth month with no prospect of peace in sight.

There has been no radical reduction of coal since the beginning of this year it has been learned. West Virginia production was cut about half; Kentucky and West Virginia are non-union.

And despite the strike, the production for the entire country for the first six months of this year was 5,000,000 tons greater than the corresponding period in 1926. This was due in part, however, to the heavy operations in the first three months to get coal above ground.

The total weekly production for the first full week of July this year was 6,577,000, as compared to 8,306,000 last year. The weekly consumption from May to June last year was 8,030,000 tons, indicating that the present production is almost sufficient to care for existing needs without calling on reserve stocks.

The weighted average price of coal a ton at the mine is lower this year than a year ago when conditions were normal, the figures being $1.82 and $1.91. A week ago the price was $1.80. Coal prices naturally will ascend from now on as the buying for fall and winter becomes more brisk but officials look for no skyrocketing of prices.

Woman Is Killed By Freight Train

(International News Service)

UNIONTOWN, Pa., July 30.—Funeral arrangements were completed here today for Mrs. Ellen Vernon, 43, run over and killed by a freight train as her 5-year-old son Frederick stood horror stricken watching the wheels grind the life out of his mother.

The little boy sobbed out the story of the tragedy to his father immediately after the accident.

He said his mother had told him to crawl under a standing freight train. She followed immediately behind him. The little boy managed to reach the other side just as the train started moving. His mother was trapped. Ten cars were said to have passed over her body.

Mrs. Frederick R. White and son, Bobby of Kansas City are visiting at the home of the former's mother, Mrs. Margaret McClelland of 313 Pine street.

Auto Carries China License

A flaming yellow license plate, with black letters spelling CHINA came to the notice of Mrs. George W. Patton of 309 South Crawford avenue, when she was on her way to McKeesport earlier in the week.

On the left hand side of the plate was the year, 1927, and on the right, something was written in the Chinese characters.

The car also carried a license from one of our own states, but Mrs. Patton did not notice it in the traffic, as she was so interested in the Chinese license.

BOY'S ILLNESS CHECKS REVIEW OF SACCO CASE

Son Of Governor Fuller Of Massachusetts Is Rushed To Hospital

(International News Service)

BOSTON, July 30.—Governor Alvan T. Fuller's review of the case of Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, was unexpectedly interrupted today when his son, Alvan, Jr., ten was stricken with acute appendicitis.

Governor and Mrs. Fuller rushed Little Alvan by automobile from the Fuller summer home at Rye Beach, N. J., to Phillips House Massachusetts General hospital.

An operation was immediately performed, the appendix being removed.

The hospital officials described the case as "early, mild, acute appendicitis". The boy was said to be resting comfortably after the operation.

Meanwhile Sacco and Vanzetti continued the fourteenth day of their hunger strike at state's prison with their physical and mental condition causing alarm to their friends and sympathizers.

At the same time, police announced that beginning Monday until the two prisoners are either freed or executed a day and night detail of reserves will be thrown about the Charlestown institution prepared for any emergency. Streets in the vicinity of the prison probably will be guarded, it was said at police headquarters.

Urge Arrest Of Driver Charged With Splashing

Police Also Get Report That Man Drives Horse Into His Auto

Robert Ubry, 723 Court street, and Paul Stroebel, 641 Ray street, have suggested to city police officials that the driver of an auto owned by E. N. Taylor, 828 1-2 East Washington street, be arrested.

It is alleged by the two men in a report to police that, accompanied by their wives, they were walking in South Mill street when the Taylor car, alleged to be operated at a high rate of speed, splashed dirty water over them.

They told police that an arrest should be made because the splashing would not have occurred had the car been operating at a slow rate.

Recently City Solicitor White said he intended to prosecute a driver of a taxicab which splashed muddy water over him and he was promised settlement for damage, it is said.

Another oddity connected with automobiles occurred when a horse, attached to a wagon, was driven into the rear of an auto by an alleged "intoxicated driver".

Carl E. Keefer, 1407 Carlisle street, made the foregoing report, declaring that he was turning his car into Arlington avenue from Washington street when the accident occurred.

He said the horse's head was cut when the horse was forced by the driver into the rear of the Keefer auto. He said that the horse driver was drunk. He didn't know who he was.

Warns Nation Regarding 'Inadequate' Food Supply Within Next Forty Years

Increasing Industrial Population And Decreasing Farm Population Is Cited.

Mid-West Man Addresses Round Table Conference With Sound Views.

By COLE E. MORGAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass., July 30.—With an increasing industrial population and a relatively decreasing agricultural population America faces the prospect within the next 40 years of an inadequate food supply, Henry A. Wallace of Des Moines today told the Institute of Politics in opening a round table conference on the farm problem. This situation will come about, he said, "as a reaction to the grave injustice which has been done to agriculture during the past six years."

Wallace warned that in such a situation laboring men, compelled to pay an undue proportion of their wages for food, may bring on disturbances which "will cause the good people of the industrial centres a thousand times as much worry as the present farm situation." He asked:

"How far is it worth while to travel on the road toward complete industrialization? Is the ideal goal to cut our farm population to 25,000,000 and to increase our town and city population to 175,000,000? From the standpoint of national safety in the long run how much attention should be devoted to agriculture?"

Gives Answer.

Here is his answer:

"Personally I am inclined to the view that our national safety demands a policy which will result in at least one-fourth of our people being farmers. I think most of us are agreed that it is a sound long-time policy for the soil of the United States to produce the bulk of the food and clothing which we consume.

"Of course we must remember that we have invested over $4,000,000 in South America and that certain interests are looking forward to feeding our seaboard cities to a considerable extent with imported foods. The seaboard cities seem to like the idea of exporting manufactured goods and importing foods. But disregarding this situation for the time being I think most of us are agreed that it is sound national policy to depend pretty largely on our home farmers. The big point at issue right now is the type of organization which agri-

First Roasting Ears Reported

The first report of corn this summer from local gardens was received at The News this morning.

According to Mrs. Harry J. Brown of 817 Fulkerson street, her family had corn for dinner; yes, out of their garden too. "The corn that we had is of a variety slightly superior to the golden bantam kind. It appears six or eight weeks in advance of other kinds."

Neighbors Raise Fund For Gould

Contribute $56 To Man Whose Home Was Burned Down Last Tuesday

Neighbors of W. A. Gould, whose home was burned down last Tuesday are raising a fund to aid him at the present time, it is reported to The News, today. So far, $56 has been raised in cash, which has already been turned over to Mr. Gould, and more will be given to him, as the fund is still increasing.

J. F. Ditter and Clint Badger have been in charge of the fund and have turned the money over to Mr. Gould. They announce that contributions for Mr. Gould, from residents of the district can be left at Hoch's store at the corner of the Wilmington and Pulaski roads, and they will be turned over at once to Mr. Gould.

It's been fine to have seen what I have this vacation, cost me a heap, but I saw quite a lot, some days were cool and the rain didn't miss us, some days were nose burning cheek tanning hot. Met some new folks on our travels I grant you, saw many things on our annual home, now that it's over get this gentle reader, gee but its great to be coming back home. Somehow the folks in the town I am living, seem just a little bit finer than most, the grass seems much greener, the girls better looking, this I believe and its no idle boast. Maybe our town isn't large as some others, but listen to me its the best in the land, its going to seem good to get back with the neighbors, its going to be fine to be given a hand. Travelling's fine, but the home trip is pleasant, its nice to get back after one's been away, visits just add to the home town's attractions, weather, oh yes, seventy-two today.

FRED L. RENTZ OBSERVES 45th ANNIVERSARY TODAY OF SERVICE WITH NEWS

Fred L. Rentz, president of The News Company, is receiving congratulations from a host of friends today, this day marking the 45th anniversary of his connection with The News.

As a lad, 45 years ago, Mr. Rentz began work in The News mechanical department, and he has been with the paper ever since.

For the past 31 years he has been manager of The News, and it has been due in a large measure to his efforts that The News is the magnificent newspaper that it is given credit for being, at this time.

In a reminiscent mood this morning, Mr. Rentz reflected that many changes have occurred in this city since the day he stepped into The News plant as an employe for the first time.

"There is not a business house on Washington street today, that was there when I started to work for The News," he said. "But there has certainly been great progress recorded, and I am confident that New Castle is going to keep right on moving towards the top—the best little city in the United States."

Flood Control Plans Offered For All Rivers

Construction Of Basins, Lakes And Reservoirs To Cost $300,000,000.

Would Aid Farms In Dry Times While Levees Are Only Protective.

(International News Service)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 30.—The construction of basins, lakes and reservoirs, starting at the source of rivers, would be the most feasible plan for flood control, according to E. E. Blake, Oklahoma City, chairman of the Interstate commission for flood control of the Arkansas and Red River systems. Blake's territory includes Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi, Oklahoma, Kansas, New Mexico and Colorado.

The cost of basins for the Arkansas and Red rivers would not exceed $100,000,000, Blake explained. These rivers, he said, supply one-third of the water of the Mississippi river. For another $200,000,000, other tributary streams could be basined and reservoired, he said.

The present plan to spend about $600,000,000 to rebuild and enlarge Mississippi levees was said by Blake to be the less effective of the two policies. He pointed out that benefits to agriculture and industry could be gained from the basins and reservoirs, whereas the levees would be mere protection.

Blake is making an effort to get senators and representatives through the southwest to join in a flood control conference in Kansas City, Oklahoma City, or Little Rock.

COMMISSION ORDERS BUS CO. TO ASK PERMIT

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, Pa., July 30.—The public service commission today ordered the Hazleton Auto Bus Company to file an application for a certificate within ninety days or cease operating scheduled motor bus passenger routes between Hazleton and McAdoo.

The same order directed the motor transportation to cease operation in Pennsylvania unless it likewise files an application within ninety days.

Complaint was brought by the Lehigh Traction Company, which holds the stock in the Hazleton Auto Bus Company, against the Motor Transportation Company, which in turn filed complaint against the Hazletown Auto Bus Company.

culture must adopt in order to play her part in our oncoming civilization."

Family Sized Farms.

Wallace advocated the family sized farm as preferable to large corporation-owned farms, declaring:

"We believe that the children raised on such a farm will be more alert and more capable of taking responsibility than children of laborers who work for a great agricultural corporation. It is worthy of note that in almost every nation where a large agricultural laboring class has developed, the standards of living of that class have been lower than the standards of laboring men in the cities. To date we have been free from a permanent agricultural laboring clause."

Contrasting agriculture with other industry, Wallace said:

"Farmers today comprising about one-fourth the population of the country receive about one-tenth of the national income. The agricultural industry after paying for labor about 60 per cent above pre-war has a return on a capital investment of three or four per cent whereas corporate industry after paying its labor more than twice the pre-war wage has a return on its capital investment of around 12 per cent, as calculated by the U. S. department of agriculture from treasury records. This would seem to indicate beyond doubt that for the time being city industries are catering more satisfactorily than farmers to the satisfying of human needs."

Wallace estimated that the agricultural capital investment had shrunk since 1920 by about $20,000,000,000 while industry's capital had been increased in that period by a like amount.

FORCED TO SERVE YEARS IN PRISON BY MISTAKE

the judge again and again that he did not commit the crime; that they ought not, they must not sentence an innocent man.

No Dream

But John was awake. And in the stillness of the cell to which he was led he came to realize the full meaning of his fate.

Was it possible that he must go to prison for a robbery he did not commit? Could a court of justice be nothing but a horrible mockery? And those who sit in judgment of their fellowmen, does it mean nothing to them to rob innocent men of their liberty, to break their lives and rob them of their faith in justice? What is the object of institutions created in the name of justice for man's protection if it permits such terrible mistakes?

Such were the maddening thoughts surging through the mind of John Mack, he says, as he sat reflecting the fate that was to snatch from him his best years of life and that was to leave his old parents helpless and unprotected.

Even Judge Aids

John had friends who firmly believed that he did not commit the crime. The judge, too, became convinced that the verdict was not based on facts and ordered an investigation, which brought about the confession of Charles Murray, also serving five to 25 years for the same robbery, that he alone was responsible. A pardon was obtained and John, after serving five years and 12 days of his sentence, was released, a free man.

Yet, strange to say, the victim of such unkind fate comes out of his prison cell saying: "The world doesn't owe me anything. It seemed all terrible in the beginning and I felt that this whole world was a damned funny place. But my friends did not forget me. They did wonderful things for me and now I must prove to them that I appreciate it."

And it was well that John got back as he did. For his old parents have spent every bit of their savings to help establish John's innocence and have just about reached rock bottom.

Little by little the once comfortable home of the old folk turned into a one-room abode where poverty was beginning to lurk forebodingly.

Besides, the father was paralyzed and has not been able to work for some years. And the old, sorrow-bent mother was waging a losing battle with the stormy sea of existence.

Happy They Made Sacrifice

But now that John is back, everything looks hopeful. All the trouble, all the sacrifice was worth while, the parents declare. John will help them. And John, who is starting out again to conquer the world at the age of 40 with a shaken confidence, and a prison record behind him, solemnly promises.

"You see", says John, "the world is all strange to me and I don't know just what I'll do. I have been visiting around a bit, soaking up some of the fresh air and trying to get some strength back into my bones. I figure I'll get along all right and will make things easier for the old folks. I am a good mechanic and in prison took care of embossing machines in the auto license tag department."

"No", he adds, "I don't cherish any resentment and I don't blame any one. Tough luck, that's all. And there in prison many an innocent man is suffering for crimes he did not commit. Some even go to their death. Well, guess I am pretty lucky at that."

Such is the story of John Mack, who is back in Toledo with empty hands, a prison record, an ailing body and poor old parents on his hands.

STEPHENSON IS BEFORE PROBERS

Klan grand dragon and all his file of private papers, the jury now proposes to receive an explanation of the political date from the lips of "the old man of the Klan" himself.

Although Warden Walter H. Daly of the state prison today would make no statement concerning Stephenson's, whereabouts, Robert H. Moore, of Michigan City, Stephenson's attorney said that Indiana's most famous life termer left the prison last night under heavy guard.

Just before leaving the prison Stephenson issued the following statement through Moore:—

"I will go through with what I have started.

"I purchased the Marion county and state officials involved in this investigation in an open market. I paid an excessive price for them.

"Afterwards, they railroaded me to prison and convicted me of a crime of which I was not guilty, I can't even have the right to talk with my attorneys privately. They have denied me that privilege. Now I am going to turn them over to the state of Indiana for a while."

Mayor Doesn't Believe In 'Goose-Gander Trial'

Ethlyn Is Caught In Nannie's Place And Fined As Inmate.

'POLICE OWLS' BAG FIVE IN VISIT

Ethlyn Jones, colored, believes that "what is good for the goose is good for the gander", but it cost her $5 to try out the experiment.

She was captured in a raid when the "Three Owls"—Policemen Hagen, Allgier and Thomas—appeared rather suddenly at Nannie Spring's house on Moravia street last night.

"Yes, boss, ah'm married but not libbin' wiff mah man. He don' cheat first and ah left h'm. Ah went to Akron an' came to Nannie's house to help her do housework," said Ethlyn.

Nannie, the proprietress, who didn't have much to say, was fined $25 on a charge of operating a disorderly house and two young male visitors were discharged.

According to the two girls, both about 30, Nannie has been ill and Ethlyn, being separated from "her man", came to New Castle and started to help Nannie.

The two young men entered Nannie's house and within a short time a regular "party" was in progress. Home brew was the beverage and there is no concrete evidence that anybody refused a drink.

While the two young men, Nannie and Ethlyn were cuttin' up, the "Three Police Owls"—Hagen, Allgier and Thomas—"cut in" and in the group they bagged one "Bill" Hawkins, alleged hanger-on at "Nan's place".

One of the "cops" told "Willyum" to walk to the police auto. He started out but somehow or another his feet pointed in an opposite direction and he is still walking.

In police court the mayor heard Ethlyn tell her story of woe and how she happened to be at Nannie's. She wanted to play the good Samaritan, she said, and had been helpin' Nannie with the house work.

"Had a little party, too," suggested the mayor, whereupon Ethlyn smiled. "Cheating, too, eh?" suggested the mayor, whereupon Ethlyn said: "Ah'm not libbin' wiff mah man and he don' cheat first."

"Can't have that here, Ethlyn. Five dollars fine and back to Wampum or to the county jail you'll go," said the mayor, after which he slapped a $25 fine upon Nannie for having a disorderly house.

"Bring that 'Bill' Hawkins into police court the first time you see him," he told police. "We're not going to have a man like him hangin' around town."

Indications are that the mayor didn't impose salty fines on Nannie and Ethlyn for the reason that he is saving up his judicial temperament and authority until he gets a chance to talk to one Willyum Hawkins.

If Willyum's legs are good he will probably keep walking and he won't allow his dogs to travel in a circle. If he does he is apt to walk into the county jail if he hasn't a pocketful of money.

About 100 Boy Scouts arrived in the city this morning from the Lawrence county Boy Scout camp. These boys have been at the camp for a period of two weeks although some were there only one week. At the present time the camp is closed and will be over the week-end.

About 75 crippled children will attend the camp next week.

Town Talk

Five pennies were found in the curb light thermometer in front of the News office. Just how they got there is a mystery.

We presume that some belated resident of the city on his uncertain way home wished to sweeten his breath with some chewing gum and took Arthur Mometer for a gum machine. After several futile attempts he must have decided that the machine was empty. For he must have left without taking his spite out on the machine for the thermometer is unharmed.

The other evening a sight greeted our eyes that we have not seen for years, for parked in front of the News office right among all the Fords, Hudsons and Lincoln Eights was the good old-fashioned Dobbin Four.

Tied to one of the posts along the curb we saw a horse hitched to a buggy. What was common a generation ago has now almost ceased to exist and it looked srange to us to see Dobbin stamping away on the brick pavement trying to keep time to the droning of the motors about her.

Work on the Temple Israel, being erected at the corner of Highland and Moody avenues, is progressing nicely. The exterior of the building is almost completed, and the building presents a most attractive appearance.

Workmen are still engaged in the work of grading and beautifying the large hillside around the Scottish Rite cathedral on Highland avenue. A stone retaining wall has been built along Highland avenue for the entire length of the property and the ground is now being terraced the entire length of the street. The improvement to the site will add much to the exterior appearances of the institution.

On rainy days fair pedestrains find themselves in a splash trap while traveling the walk on Washington street in front of the First National Bank building that is being torn down.

As the rain gathers on the street and the automobiles come along the muddy water is splashed clear across the walk provided by the contractors. So that any one caught in the range of fire have no chance to escape, since the walk is built out into the street so far that the cars must drive quite close to the walk.

Yesterday after the showers several silk gowns were speckled and the minds of several unlucky ones quite ruffled.

Another board or two nailed on the protecting posts would eliminate this nuisance and ease the minds of many who have to use the passageway provided.

MUTUAL

He was a newcomer to the bank and consequently found his duties rather hard to remember; but all this was forgotten when he received his first pay envelope.

On a businesslike manner he quickly checked the contents before signing the receipt. Then his eye caught the words underlined in black:

"Your salary is your personal business and a confidential matter. It should not be disclosed to anyone."

The clerk grinned as he picked up a pen and signed his name. Below he added briefly:

"I won't mention it to anyone. I am as much ashamed of it as you are."

Police Call Physician Who Sends Johnson To New Castle Hospital

Dr. F. E. Eakin, city-county physician today, at the request of Mayor William Dunlap and Police Chief Dysart examined "Cy" Johnson, arrested for intoxication and ordered him into the New Castle hospital to await the outcome of observation.

Johnson was taken into custody yesterday with a dozen bottles of bay rum and several cans of canned heat.

He told police this morning that he had an excruciating pain in his right side and Dr. Eakin was summoned.

The physician said he was ill but on account of his condition, caused by intoxicants, he could not tell exactly whether it was from the effects of the 'stuff' he had been drinking or appendicitis.

Deaths Of The Day

Howard J. Oatey's Funeral.

Funeral services of the late Howard J. Oatey were held Friday afternoon at the family residence, 734 Croton avenue with Rev. S. L. Maxwell pastor of the Epworth M. E. church in charge.

A guard of honor of two members of K. Company, Sons of Union Veterans stood at attention during the service in the home. At Oak Park cemetery where burial was made, Oscar L. Jackson Camp, Sons of Veterans had charge of the services. Those participating in the service at the grave were Frank Hill, as commander, Edward E. Cross as senior vice commander, H. K. Bell as junior vice commander, Frank Schetrom as patriotic instructor and Ralph M. Campbell as chaplain. Rev. Maxwell pronounced the benediction.

Following this service taps were sounded by Master Fred Warner. At the services held in the home Mrs. J. J. Bornman rendered two selections assisted by Miss Helen Weingartner at the piano. The pallbearers were Messrs. Frank Schetrom, Edward E. Cross, H. K. Bell, R. M. Campbell, Everett Rick and B. F. Grannis.

Mr. Emery Buried.

Funeral services for Lyle G. Emery took place Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from his late residence on East Washington street. Rev. S. E. Irvine, pastor of the First U. P. church, officiated. The services were largely attended. Many beautiful floral tributes expressed sympathy.

The pallbearers were H. G. Miller, P. K. Fike, J. Elder Bryan, Walter S. Reynolds, John M. Snyder and Larry J. Heim. Burial was made in Oak Park cemetery. Mahoning lodge, F. & A. M. conducted a brief service at the grave.

Miss Celesta Scollard.

Miss Celesta Mary Scollard, aged 80 years, died at her home in Leesburg, Friday, July 29 after an illness of nine months.

Miss Scollard was born in Springfield township, June 23, 1849, the oldest daughter of W. S. and Margaret Simpson Scollard. She leaves three brothers, William of Leesburg, John of New Castle, Charles and one sister, Ella at home.

Funeral services will take place Monday, August 1 at 2:30 p. m. Eastern Standard time from the home.

Mrs. Wilson Buried.

Funeral services for Mrs. Adam Wilson were held Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock from her home at Neshannock Falls. Rev. Charles Rohrbaugh, pastor of the Rich Hill Presbyterian church of which she was a member, officiated. Interment was made in Neshannock cemetery. Pallbearers were Ben. Morehead, Earl Morehead, James Hinkson, Lee Carlon, James Wilson and Mac McCreary.

Charles Locke.

Charles Locke, aged 60 years of 706 Emery street, died Thursday, July 29 following an illness.

Mr. Locke was born July 5, 1867 in New Castle a son of David and Eunice Locke. For a number of years he was employed at the Chemical Works of this city.

Eleven years ago he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Biddle who survives him. Funeral services will take place Monday, August 1 at 2 p. m. from his late home. Interment in Graceland cemetery.

George C. Louden.

George C. Louden, aged 49 years, passed away this morning at 8:30 at his home, 1512 East Washington street, following an extended illness.

Mr. Louden was born in Butler county May 2, 1878, a son of John Louden, deceased, and Hannah Campbell Louden. He had been a resident of New Castle for about nine years. He was a member of the Third U. P. church and was a tin worker by occupation.

Besides his widow, Nora C. Louden, and his mother of this city, he leaves three children, Mrs. Myrtle Jenkins of this city and Ethel May and Kenneth at home. He also leaves one brother, Rev. Samuel Louden of Mars, Pa., and four sisters, Mrs. John Campbell, Mrs. George Loudon, Miss Rose Louden and Mrs. Ernest McCaslin, all of New Castle.

Funeral services will be conducted Tuesday, August 2, at 3 p. m. daylight savings time from his late home.

Mrs. Hanna V. Kerr.

Word has been received by Mrs. Myrtle Huff of English avenue, this city, of the death of her aunt, Mrs. Hannah Vogan Kerr, which occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ethel Schnell of South Omaha, Neb.

Mrs. Kerr was born 83 years ago, the daughter of John and Hannah Dean Vogan of the Harlansburg road. She had lived in the west for 50 years, but had visited in New Castle quite frequently during that time.

She spent some time about a year ago at the homes of Thomas Rowland and Mrs. Myrtle Huff of this city, making the trip here alone.

Mrs. Kerr is survived by many nieces and nephews in New Castle and Butler county.

Many Candidates File Papers Today

Many Announce Intention Of Seeking City And County Offices

There was a large increase in the number of nominating petitions filed this morning at the office of the county commissioners by persons who are seeking office at the coming primary.

Those filing papers are: Mayor of New Castle, R. T. Withers; City Council, Frank Nugent; County Commissioner, W. M. C. Drake and Norman A. Craig; County Treasurer, William G. McFate-McDowell Lose In Tourney

Finals of the Shenango singles tournament will be played this afternoon, barring rain, on the courts of the Sharon Country club. Kouter of Greenville and George De Hoff of Sharon will be the contestants.

In the semi-finals Kouter of Greenville beat Joe McFate of New Castle by a score of 7-5, 6-3, and De Hoff beat MacDowell of Jamestown by a score of 7-5, 6-4. MacDowell was the captain of the tennis team at Westminster last year which captured the third leg on the tri-state conference cup. This cup is now a permanent possession of Westminster college.

It will be remembered that McFate was the captain of the team which annexed the first two legs on the tri-state cup.

The Shenango valley singles cup is another three-leg cup and it came into the permanent possession of De Hoff last year. This year there is a new trophy in the competition.

Two Injured In Accidents

"Hit And Run" Motorist In One Accident Near Bedford.

BOY IS STRUCK ON NORTH STREET

Two persons were injured in automobile accidents today, one along the New-Bedford-New Castle road by a "hit and run" motorist and the other Robert Shubert, a boy from Oil City, by W. C. Duncan, 331 Shaw street.

Neither is seriously hurt and will recover.

According to reports of the accident near New Bedford, Robert Rinehart of Greensburg was travelling along the highway when a big, high-powered automobile crowded him over on the road then struck his machine.

After the automobile had been knocked from the road and broken glass had lacerated the scalp and face of Mr. Rinehart the driver of the big "hit and run car" turned around, waved his hand at the injured man and sped away.

Robert Shubert, Oil City, visiting an aunt in the Hamilton block, this city, was walking across North and North Mill street when he was struck by the Duncan car. His head was lacerated and leg cut below the knee.

According to Duncan's report of the accident to city police, there was an automobile ahead of him when the green light flashed and he started. Shubert was walking across the thoroughfare and when hit was taken to the hospital by Duncan.

Aviator And Passenger In Narrow Escape

(International News Service)

NEW HYDE PARK, N. Y., July 30. An aviator and his passenger had a remarkable escape from death today when his army airplane fell to the ground near here in flames. The plane was from Mitchell Field, Long Island.

A number of motorists saw the plane afire in the air and breathlessly watched its descent. The plane made a rapid but careful landing and the two men in it jumped to safety as it reached the ground.

Boys, Asleep In Car, Are Injured

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., July 30.—Asleep in their car while enroute to State College early today, Charles Myron Chessrown, 18, and John N. Chattaway, 20, both of Monongahela City were injured when the car was wrecked against a tree at Greenwood, east of here.

Chattaway, driver, was held by state police on a reckless driving charge.

TELLING COOLIDGE

WHETHER that was his plan or not, President Coolidge went into the Middle West to study the agricultural problems there, not to take a vacation rest cure. A bewildering array of farm statistics is being spread before him day after day, much of it so confusing and misleading that it must make his head swim.

There is much that is puzzling about these figures. Apparently the "averages" are obtained by lumping together all kinds of farms and all kinds of farmers. But one uses a combine to harvest wheat, saving 20 cents a bushel over one who does not. One farms on land purchased at $25 an acre, another on land held at $300 an acre. One farms economically and intelligently, raising more per acre than another.

So of what use are all these figures? Whose cost of production is to fix the market price. And why go to the president about it? Do the farm bloc politicians still pretend to have faith in the ability of congress to cure economic ills? Do they believe the chief executive can tell congress next winter how to make every farmer prosperous?

And who is Mr. Coolidge to believe? The politicians who declare the McNary-Haugen bill or similar legislation must pass, or such men as the Minnesota publisher who advised the president that the McNary-Haugen bill is "a delusion and a snare" and that the farmers of the Northwest are rapidly recouping their losses, paying off their mortgages and getting on a solid foundation by adoption of intelligent farm methods; that the real solution of the farm problem must come from the farmers themselves.

One wonders if any of the prosperous farmers have that great faith in their politicians or congress that they believe one or the other can beat the laws of supply and demand.

ROADS AND AUTOS—INDUSTRY

FEW of all man's inventions ever had so profound an effect upon the ways and manners of mankind as the gasoline motor. It has changed man's habits, his mode of living, his outlook on life, his pleasures and, in millions of instances, his way of earning a livelihood.

As one watches the never-ending parade of automobiles and remembers this country has more than twenty millions of the 27,650,267 automobiles in the world, it seems one-half of the population is motoring while the other half is engaged in the allied industries that make motoring possible and pleasurable.

Hundreds of thousands of men are engaged in manufacturing, maintaining and selling automobiles. Then there is that army which produces accessories and supplies. What a tremendous organization it takes to produce and market the vast quantities of motor fuels and oils consumed daily. And then there are the hotels, inn, stands and camps built by the motorists' money.

But probably the greatest industry, next to the automobile industry itself, created by the motor car is that of roadbuilding. This year there are probably 750,000 men regularly employed in highway construction and fully $1,500,000,000 is being spent for highway improvement.

The road map of today placed beside the road map of twenty years ago tells an amazing story of highway development and improvement. There has been nothing quite like it in the history of transportation. And it is not an industry that will die tomorrow, for the widest roads being built today will not be wide enough for traffic demands of tomorrow. The nation must keep on building roads as long as transportation stays on the ground.

WAR ON WEEDS

A SEED control act was passed by the Ontario legislature which was moved by the estimate that farmers of the province suffer a loss of $100,000,000 annually from thistles, twitch grass and other pests which must be fought at considerable expense for labor that could be used in production of profitable crops.

The law provides for appointment of weed inspectors by officials in any section feeling the need of their services. The inspectors have power to compel the land owners to keep weeds cut to prevent their going to seed.

The farmers of Pennsylvania know something about Canada thistles and observance of the old law about cutting them. Town councils get busy once in a while and order all weeds cut within a certain period under threat of having them cut and bills rendered property owners, but vacant lots are permitted to be overrun with weeds that go to seed, and the seed is scattered far and near, making it hard for those who take pride in the appearance of their premises to have fine lawns and gardens.

An adjoining lot full of ragweed, plantain, Spanish needles and other weeds is not only an eyesore but an aggravation which a good neighbor should not be compelled to suffer.

A Boston preacher says church is a habit. Well, it's a good habit, that never hurt anyone. The trouble nowadays seems to be that so many are getting out of the habit.

After forty-five years on The News today we seem to have as hard a job as we ever had. Conducting this column seems to get harder as the years roll by, but we enjoy the work in spite of it all and would be quite sorry if we had to quit it. We are going to have a real celebration when we celebrate our Fiftieth anniversary on The News.

ONE WAY TO BUY GASOLINE

Some people certainly are willing to deprive themselves to own an auto. John F. Griffin, motor vehicle commissioner in Manchester, N. H., tells of a shiftless man who somehow scraped together enough to buy a car. That took his last dollar. And he couldn't get gasoline for his auto, not having credit at any garage. So his wife, a steady worker with credit at a store, brought 2 dozen eggs, walked 4 miles to another town and sold them, getting enough money to buy 4 gallons of gasoline. Maybe this was the shiftless man's conception of success.

The housing problem is not so great in New Castle as it is in Vienna, glory be! Because of their inability to find shelter, six former wives of a Vienna man came back and camped on him. We certainly would not want a tragedy like that to happen in New Castle, would we?

President Coolidge has not tackled golf or tennis yet. He has been a cowboy and a fisherman, which may account for it.

A North Hill father says that college undoubtedly has made his son's head bigger, but that there seems to be less in it than before he went there.

Queen Marie of Roumania says she wants to come to this country to see some of the national political conventions. It's too bad she was not here to see the last one the Dems pulled off in New York. Is sure was a wow and no foreign country could ever beat it.

Billboards in New Castle may hide the scenery, but the scenery the girls wear on the streets doesn't hide much.

Every day the people of the world light nearly 13 billion matches, or seven for every man, woman and child. We'd always had a hazy notion that match-making was a small industry compared with the major activities. So it surprised us to learn that the world's people pay 200 million dollars a year for matches, and that here in the United States alone 30 million dollars is invested in match-making equipment. Oh, well, nearly every man is an ignoramus outside his own business.

No New Castle man will ever stand on an equal footing with women until he has the nerve to appear at an evening function with a "dress suit" that has no back from the waist up.

It will soon be the time of the year when men, and sometimes women also, will go to country fairs and they will have different opinions about the speed of the various race horses they will see on the tracks. The result will be that many will have less money and also think less of the speed of many of the horses.

A colored man in Pittsburgh was arrested for selling three dollar shirts for a quarter. He evidently was selling them for what they were worth —to him.

Aimee McPherson, red headed kidnapped evangelist of Los Angeles declares her mother said she would crush her and keep her out of every pulpit in this country. We believe her ma could do it if she wanted to, and all she would have to do would be to tell about the kidnapping in Mexico. Aimee should be silent and respect her mother who culd put her on the bum if she wanted to, we fell sure. Aimee also says she has a confession to make about that kidnapping yarn. It would really be worth getting an extra out on.

HER SENTIMENT CHANGED

"You remember a few weeks ago when all those meteorites were falling? Well, Jack and Edith were out on the lawn and Jack told her that every time he saw one shoot he would claim a kiss.'

"What did Edith do."

"She blushed and stammered that she hoped none would shoot."

"The idea! Did she keep that sentiment all the evening?"

"Hardly! Later on when all the meterors had been exhausted we heard her asking Jack if there was chance of the moon shooting.

A multi-millionaire at Flint, Mich., who is 77 years old, is going to marry a tender little blossom who has never been married before and who is only 37 years old and who claims it is a love-you-truly-and-dearly affair. The old bird seems to be able to afford getting married, all right.

The people back of a candidate for office are often a real menace to the success of a city. Selfishness in all its various forms sticks out of them all over and they are only for themselves. You know them when you see them—or rather, hear them.

When we hear the noise some gas carts make it puts us in mind of static.

We never write any poetry. If any of it appears in this column it is either sent in or we steal it. We do not want any wrong impressions to get out about it.

They have a big stadium out in Chicago, and it was built as a memorial to the men who fought in the World War. Money-grabbing prize-fight promoters want to hold the Dempsey-Tunney money-making fight in this stadium. Patroitic citizens of Chicago are up in arms over this and declare that Jack Dempsey, who has no war record, shall not despoil this stadium by being allowed to fight in it. Dempsey sure is shy on a war record in the way of fighting at least. He does not believe in fighting for such low wages as soldiers were paid. We think the patriots of Chicago are quite right.

If Rome were to burn again. New Castle could furnish a hundred better fiddlers than Nero to play the violin obligato. Most everywhere we go we see people carrying fiddles, and they seem to carry most of 'em on Sundays.

The baby king of Rumania got his first feed of American buckwheat cakes a few mornings ago. He probably knows how to feel like a real king after getting such real American feed.

An Ohio man went around telling that he had killed a man and the man really was found dead, but after they put the bird in jail he says he was only telling the killing story as a joke. That sounds a whole lot like a joker, doesn't it?

Editor Hints and Dints: This morning, as I was coming down town, a piece of dirt flew into my eye. I had to go to the doctor and have it removed, and was an hour late to work. A mountain peak near Denver is to be named Lindbergh. Buffalo Bill is buried on a mountain peak in Colorado also, but it is not named after him. It is called Lookout Mountain. Lindbergh is first in the thoughts of his countrymen and all because of his modesty. Most any man, including ourselves, would have talked themselves out of popularity some weeks ago.

The police chiefs, in session at Altoona ,went on record by a unanimous resolution endorsing Mayor Kline of Pittsburgh for standing back of his head of the police department, which is being lambasted by a league opposed to vice, etc. It is easy to attack a police department. The right way to get action with a police department is to co-operate with it. Some will say that cannot be done, but they never tried it.

FIXED STARS

To all our means of culture is added that powerful incentive to personal ambition which springs from the genius of our government. The pathway to honorable distinction lies open to all. No post of honor is so high but the poorest boy may hope to reach it. It is the pride of every American that many cherished names, at whose mention our hearts beat with a quicker bound, were worn by the sons of poverty, who conquered obscurity and became fixed stars in our firmament.

DuPont Went Shopping.
Ten Young Frenchmen.
The Sacred White Obi.
A Poor Queen.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1927, By N. Y. American, Inc.

Pierre DuPont of duPont de Nemours Co. went shopping and casually reports that he bought for his company fourteen million dollars' worth of "Big Steel" stock. DuPont de Nemours is the biggest owner of General Motors stock, and this duPont shopping tour has aroused great Wall Street excitement and speculation.

Some guess that a super-trust is to be based on a combination of General Motors and United States Steel, which would earn about four hundred million dollars net profit a year. That would be 5 per cent on eight billions, and big business would be on its way to a record worth while.

Thursday United States Steel, just because duPont had been buying it, jumped to a new high price of $134.50. Considering that every holder of 10 0shares recently got forty shares of stock free, you will see that if you buy the right stuff in the United States and keep it it will keep you, and you won't have to worry about anything except your health.

* * *

Ten earnest students, selected from leading French universities, arrived Thursday to study in America. They will really study. Americans not familiar with earnest young Frenchmen have no conception of their seriousness and mental power.

Lord Bryce said to Ostrogorski, the eminent Russian writer: "Learned men in France sent to England young Frenchmen of most admirable intellectual earnestness, bringing letters of introduction to me, and I am obliged to admit with regret that we cannot send from England to France young men with that same earnestness.

Instead of studying in the United States, the ten young Frenchmen might teach us "how to study" if they had the time.

The Empress of Japan puts on her sacred girdle, an "obi" of beautiful white silk, twelve feet long, wrapped around the waist. Her majesty had, of course, sent the "obi" to the imperial shrine to be purified by prayer. This means that she expects a baby in a month. And a stork flew three times around the palace. That means a boy baby.

Some westerners will smile at all this "primitive stuff." But the sacred white "obi" and the purification by prayer are better than the old-fashioned American tight corset that often destroyed the new baby's chances.

At a wholesale fur auction in New York interest centered on muskrats and skunks. Those humble animals grow fur that lasts and can be made to look like any fur you please. Two and a quarter million dollars' worth of furs were sold in two days. One lot included 116,783 southern muskrat skins. Many swamps are going to waste that would produce good returns in "rat skins," which sell as high as $3 each. Ashley Grace was glad to get 25 cents apiece for those he caught at Fanwood, N. J., fifty years ago.

Queen Marie is "almost poor." Think of a queen that hasn't even one million.

The poor queen must keep up her palaces, pay her expensive staff, entertain friends, dress herself and her daughter on $30,000 a year. That is very little when you consider that she is the granddaughter of Queen Victoria and had a czar of Russia for a grandfather.

On her visit to America she said to this writer: "If I were poor I should open a dressmaking shop. My daughter would be a good model."

What a fortune the two could make in this country. And how quickly.

Just Folks

By EDGAR A. GUEST

IN THE GARDEN

Pansies and peonies and phlox
In bloom together,
And all the beauty in the box
Of summer weather
Spilled there to make a twilight fair,
But all he saw was golden hair.

A colony of martins flew
The setting sun upon the view
Was shining brightly,
About them was a flood of grace,
But all he saw was just her face.

In vain the roses bowed and swayed,
The tender greenery,
The glimmering change of light and shade
Which lit the scenery
He never noticed. She was there!
To him the fairest of the fair.

Beauty for other eyes must be
Oh, lovely garden,
For all that young man failed to see
Grant him your pardon.
Some day he will return to find
That charm to which he now is blind.

WHEN $2 BILLS REALLY ARE UNLUCKY

There are people who think $2 bills bring bad luck. Sometimes they do. It is easy to get a $2 bill sandwiched in with a number of $1 bills and pass the two for a one. Then counterfeiters have a trick of splitting a $2 bill in the middle, also a $20 and pasting one part of the two with another half of the twenty and in this way making two twenties out of a $2 and $20 bill. By passing the 20-side upside down they often get away with it.

Don't put all your eggs in one basket, or all your family in one car on Sunday. Our non-stop flights t' Europe are gettin' t' be about as common as our non-refill arrivals from Scotland.

AUTOMOBILES

The growth of the automobile industry in the United States and all over the world has been remarkable.

It is probably the outstanding business of the age in the matter of rapid development.

Has it reached its limit? Has the "saturation" point been arrived at?

According to the general manager of one of the distributors for Southern California it has not.

He says that any man who lives in any of our great cities, such as New York, Los Angeles or San Francisco, might think that the streets were about full enough of automobiles and that they could not get any fuller. The problem of street traffic is very serious.

But he adds, that we must remember that but twelve per cent of all the registered vehicles in the United States are in cities of five hundred thousand or more, and fifty-five per cent of the country people's registered motor cars are in cities of ten thousand and less. Our road-building program continues at a rapid pace. The Federal-aid to transcontinental highways extending from Canada to Mexico is doing much to help good roads.

The annual replacement market is growing, as more than 1,500,000 motor vehicles were scrapped last year.

Also the export market is growing. People all over the world are recognizing that in proportion as they own and operate motor cars their country progresses economically and socially.

Of course there are triff barriers against American cars, but people of other countries recognize that the automobile contributes materially to their prosperity, and this serves as a check upon unreasonable tariffs.

There were almost 5,000,000 motor trucks and cars produced in the United States last year and the number of registered vehicles was over 22,000,000. The prospect for 1927 is very bright. It will probably be better than 1926.

My informant says that the American people have become absolutely dependent upon the motor car, and that he believes that within the next ten years we will see 30,000,000 passenger cars on our streets and highways.

Bible Thought For Today

WALKING WITH GOD—The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord; and he delighteth in his way. Though he fall, he shall not be utterly cast down; for the Lord upholdeth him with his hand. Psalm 37:23-24.

PRAYER:—My God I thank Thee, Thou art able by Thy Spirit in Christ Jesus to keep us from stumbling.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

MIDGET LEGISLATORS.

The United States Supreme Court has been accused in several instances of engaging in the delicate task of remedying legislative omissions by placing constructions upon legislative actions which seem to some citizens rather far fetched. This Government was organized with three Departments, the Judicial and the Legislative and the Executive. The Judicial Department is supposed to show due deference to the Law Making Department, but it does not now always show that "due deference," as is evidenced by the following extract from a dissenting opinion in Crippen against Mint Sales Company, Mississippi Reports in Volume 103 of Southern Report, at Page 503. The opinion forms a very interesting document, and I give it here:

"Independent of jurisdiction, it would be a dangerous undertaking for the court, if it had the power, to undertake the job of correcting legislative mistakes and follies, for there is much in the statutes of the past dozen years evidencing midget minded statesmen and much of folly. Still I am not disposed to be hard on the Legislature. Taken as a whole it does good work and eliminates many unwise measures. There are men in the Legislature who could fill any station in the government with credit, and the majority would class as "average and better." But there are usually some 35 per cent. to 40 per cent. of the membership whose only excuse for being sent to the Legislature is to keep them out of the race for constables and justices of the peace. These men have votes, and have to be reckoned with by the wise ones in shaping the legislation of the session. If you antagonize their bills, they strike back. They are strong on midget legislation, and when they introduce a bill to place jay birds under peace bonds, or to muzzle seed ticks, or to prohibit vending machines in stores, the wise ones will vote with them for the sake of the more important measures coming on. None of these pigmy statesmen go after large questions and undertake their solution; they attack small tasks. They are strong or moral questions, or something that sounds well, which they can take back home to their people for home consumption in future politics. They go around with a spiritual microscope, searching for the germs of evils in trifles, while utterly ignoring the mountains of iniquity which stand out in plain view in the nearby landscape. Instead of making war on the beasts and birds of prey that menace society, they hunt for earthworms. Conscious of their inability to deal with large matters, they make a record from trifles, garbed in high sounding phrases."

"The midget legislators" are with us always.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, who has been chosen acting premier during the absence of Premier Stanley Baldwin in Canada holds the important post of Foreign Secretary in the British cabinet. Sir Austen has a political following which is a heritage from his eminent father. At the same time however he has had a distinguished career in Parliament to which he has devoted his whole public life since he delivered the able speech which Gladstone declared was such as to "gladden a father's heart." Prior to the war he had served as Civil Lord of Admiralty, Financial Secretary to the Treasury, Postmaster General and Chancellor of the Exchequer. In the first coalition government he held office as Secretary of State for India. For his services at Locarno he was made a Knight of the Garter. Sir Austen is a concpicuous hard worker and is well endowed with those qualities which give dignity to public life.

My TOWNS—LOS ANGELES

Los Angeles is one of those cities that I feel altogether at home in, though I have never been there. When I lived in Kansas I felt that I was in a suburb of Los Angeles much of the time. All of my neighbors had been in Los Angeles. Many of them had lived there for years. Several of my friends commuted between Wichita and Los Angeles, just as I now commute between Yonkers and New York City. At one time there was a motor bus line running between Los Angeles and Wichita, so constant was the demand for transportation both ways.

Somehow, Los Angeles has managed to attract citizens from everywhere, but particularly from the great agricultural plains in the center of the continent. Once a year there is a Kansas picnic, attended by 30,000 or more Kansans and former Kansans and their families. The Iowa picnic attracts even greater attendance.

I have heard so much about Los Angeles from persons who have lived there that I feel that I know every block of the town. I read of the trials and triumphs of that city with as much interest as though it were my home town. I wonder if there are not thousands of Americans who share with me this interest in Los Angeles.

Citrus fruits, movies and oil are the things for which Los Angeles is noted in the world. But I have never heard Los Angeles people talk about any of these things. What I have heard them talk about are the climate, the scenery and the people.

It seems, from what I am told, that Los Angeles folk take time to be neighborly. They are interested in one another. And they must be supremely interested in the scenery and the climate, for those are the topics of most conversations wherein a former resident of Los Angeles takes part.

My idea of a perfect day in Los Angeles is something like this. The sun is shining, of course. There is not a cloud in the sky. The weather is neither hot nor cold. It is merely perfect.

The entire population lines the streets and housetops, gazing off toward the Sierra Madre mountains.

The soft air actually whispers. No, it purrs. And it is merely echoing the soft suspirations of the assembled populace. For all the people are sighing and saying, "Ah, isn't it beautiful!"

Maybe that isn't a realistic picture, but it's the sketch of Los Angeles that I've been carrying around in my imagination these many years.

New Income Tax Ruling Is Made

Affects Status Of Millions Paid To Authors And Writers.

EARNED INCOME ISSUE DECIDED

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A ruling affecting the federal income tax status of millions of dollars annually paid to authors and writers in the United States was issued today by the Bureau of Internal revenue.

Compensation derived from the sale, lease or renting of an "intellectual product" is not "earned," or subject to the 25 per cent reduction allowed on that class of income in computation of taxes, unless the author has contracted in advance with the publisher who buys his articles or books.

Under this ruling writers whose works are accepted by publishers after submission for approval simply would be selling property and the compensation for their work would not be regarded as "earned income".

Officials explained, however, that it is not possible to lay down a general rule applicable to all cases, and that each tax liability must be determined individually.

The bureau held that where a publisher contracts with an author to write articles on certain subjects weekly for a period of one year, the compensation derived comes within the "earned income" provision of the revenue laws.

To meet the earned income requirement it was stipulated that the publisher should copyright the literary work paying the author a fixed amount in case, or cash plus a percentage of the income derived from other publishers using the articles or material from the book.

"The question of whether an author sells, leases or rents his intellectual product to a publisher depends upon the terms of their contract," the decision said.

"The contract may provide for the transfer of both the tangible and intangible property rights of the author in his product.

"Where the royalties received are derived either from the sale, lease or renting of the product they are not paid for 'personal services actually rendered,' but are paid for use of property and do not come within the meaning of the term 'earned income.'

In cases where contracts are made between author and publisher the relationship of employer and employe exists and the consideration paid is for the personal services of the author and therefore earned income.

'Y' Camp Buzzes With Activity

Parents' Night Celebrated Night Boys Hold Sham-Battle Today.

Friday proved to be a real wet day at the 'Y. M.' camp but neverthless everyone had a good time.

A big get-together was held in the recreation tent immediately after chapel. Following this a football game, "a la bathing suit style", was played in the mud and water of the parade grounds. After a refreshing and also a cleansing swim everyone felt like eating a horse.

In the afternoon following inspection and rest period, a lively game of 'spot ball" was played followed by another thrilling football game. In this game the Bumpers, captained by R. L. Meermans defeated the Shock Absorbers, captained by J. C. Leonard, by the score of 18-12.

Then a refreshing swim in the river followed by an honest-to-goodness dinner put everyone in shape for the big parents night entertainment.

The program of the celebration carried out at the camp last night follows:

Tent No. 1: surgery, J. Sotus and M. Hart; the bathing beauty, J. Sotus; the radio hounds, E. Smith, G. Ramsey and J. Wilson.

Tent No. 2: Captain Jenks, Sage and Ed. Fritz; announcer, H. Cohen; the tumblers flop, B. McLaughlin, Jr. Brown, P. Chambers and H. Cohen.

Tent No. 3: big spark plug act, "Sher" Johns, T. McLaughlin and B. Sypher.

Tent No. 4: the village school, J. Llewellyn, D. Harris, B. Hazen, B. Frazier, K. Myers, B. Golder and C. Mitchell; solos here and there, Jack Llewellyn.

Tent No. 5: the big wedding, Bud Gordon, Guff Moore, Bob Jameson and Cliff Pollock.

Special act by J. Llwellyn and John Hodge.

A sham-battle has been planned for today at which time the entire camp will be in action for two skirmish periods, although truce was declared at noon for the exchange of prisoners and replenishment of rations.

Spray Service Is Conducted By Farm Bureau

"The County Farm Bureau located in this city, conducts a spray service for fruit growers of this county who request it," said County Farm Agent H. R. McCulloch this morning.

He stated that the mid-summer letters, informing the growers when the spray should be applied, what kind of a spray and other information of interest, were sent out this morning.

"This service is conducted during the summer months. The service includes the sending of a letter every so often to the members, like the one sent today. It tells what insects and diseases can be controlled by certain materials and dilutions. The letter sent this morning tells the growers to use lime sulphate and arsenate of lead for extinguishing aphids and in cases where previous sprays have failed to destroy the aphids to use nicotine sulphate. The letter also tells how to control the second brooding of coddling moth, curcalias and leaf rollers. This is the last letter to be sent out this summer for fruit spraying. This does not apply to varieties to be picked prior to September 1.

Mr. McCulloch states that there are 30 growers in the county who have this service.

Oil Men See Hope In Aviation To Settle Over-Production Fears

(International News Service)

TULSA, Okla., July 30.—When commercial aviation has reached its normal development in the United States, the problem of overproduction of crude oil will be no more, W. G. Skelly, president of the Skelly Oil Company, predicts.

The airplane will become the greatest consumer of gasoline within a few years, Skelly says, and development of flying is of great importance to oil producers and refiners.

"The development of aviation in the next few years will mean a great deal to the petroleum industry," Skelly stated. "It is gratifying to see the big oil companies evincing a genuine interest. We should do everything in our power to encourage it.

Growing Importance

"Until a short time ago, aviation did not have the interest of the general public, but thanks to the feats of Lindbergh, Chamberlin, Byrd and other long distance fliers, that condition has been improved.

"No longer does anyone doubt the feasability of regularly established mail and passenger-carrying routes. Such routes will be developed as fast as the proper landing fields and airports are established.

"Recently I made a trip by train and horseback into a remote part of New Mexico. The journey required more than 24 hours from Tulsa. A friend of mine made the same trip by airplane from Fort Sill, Okla., in a little better than three hours. I lost more than two days on the round trip. It is such things as this that demonstrate the immense possibility of aviation.

New Means of Consumption

"While the automobile industry is turning out an increased number of cars each year, the fact remains that the saturation point may be reached before long.

"Internal combustion motors in automobiles will, of course, consume a great percentage of our gasoline and oil output for a long time to come; but now is the time to think of developing new and greater means of consumption.

"Aviation holds the greatest potentialities in this respect.

"Commercial aviation has been developed to an unusual degree in Europe. It is still in its infancy in this country, where, on account of the vast spaces, it is needed more than in Europe.

"Oil companies are engaged in developing a fuel for airplanes that will give the maximum efficiency. We are working hand-in-hand with those who are devoting their time to the promotion of aviation. It does not represent a big field of consumption at present, but the time is coming when it will be a great factor.

"If there were a million airplanes in America today, and we will see the time when there will be more than that in the air, we would not be worried about the overproduction of crude, for airplanes would absorb the surplus.

"Commercial aviation offers the greatest possibilities to the oil business. It is gratifying to see the interest displayed on the subject by people in this part of the country, which but reflects the interest that is being shown all over the country."

Depredations Are Charged To Boys

Four Are Before Alderman Hamilton On Peculiar Charges

Four boys and young men ranging in age from 15 to 21 years were before Alderman Walter T. Hamilton this morning on charges of breaking and entering, larceny, etc., as a result of their alleged depredations at the Smith & McQuistion garage on Sampson street since about June 30.

The boys under arrest are Charles McQuiston, William Grim, Alfred Monteith and Roland Woodward. They were arrested by Detective John Miller. This morning they entered pleas of guilty to the major portion of the charges made against them by Merritt McQuiston and their cases will be disposed of Monday by the court. They are being held in jail.

On June 30 they are alleged to have stolen the automobile of Merritt McQuiston, a half-brother of one of the boys under arrest. At that time some of them were before the city police and an adjustment of the case made for the time being.

Since that time, they are alleged to have entered the Smith & McQuiston garage to take oil and gasoline and a few weeks ago they caused a fire there that damaged a truck.

About two weeks ago, Merritt McQuiston went to a camp near Koppel to get his half-brother Charles and the latter attacked and severely wounded him on the thigh with a knife and he has not yet fully recovered. Charles McQuiston faces the charge of assault and battery in addition to charges of breaking and entering, larceny, tampering with an automobile, etc. He was arrested at Koppel last night about midnight. William Grim, charged with breaking and entering, was arrested here a little later. Monteith, who is charged with breaking and entering, operating a motor vehicle without the consent of the owner, receiving stolen goods, larceny of a motor vehicle and malicious mischief, and Roland Woodward, charged with breaking and entering, larceny, tampering with an automobile, etc., were arrested this morning.

The United States Department of Agriculture receives upwards of 30,000 letters daily asking for information aside from farming and on subjects ranging from the proper attitude towards divorce to how to eat an apple.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Geo. M. Landis, Pastor

MORNING:

"The Cross! The Power! The Unity!"

Has the cross a meaning?

Did Jesus mean unity when he prayed for it?

Is there any power in Christianity not found elsewhere?

Is there anything of value that is livable in Christianity not found in other religions?

Let us find it!

New Castle Men Promoting Project

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., July 30—F. H. Hawn owner of the Savol Chemical company sold this week an option for the purchase of his company by a group of men who are taking the necessary steps toward the organization of a company with one million dollars nominal capital which will expand the manufacture and sale of Savol products on a national basis.

The option that Mr. Hawn has obtained is for a 90 day period and involves the possibility of the removal of the business to some other locality unless Mercer becomes interested in the company and influence is used to keep the company here.

The new company proposes for the early construction of a large building and the proper equipment which will be necessary for the manufacturing of the Savol products. The plan as stated requires a force of employees from 40 to 100 persons.

The promotion work is in the hands of Melvin S. Patterson and Ralph R. Reed of New Castle and Mr. Northcutt of Akron, O.

Mr. Hawn will be retained in the new company as operating executive with a large interest in the concern.

Train Hits Car Near Middlesex

SHARON, Pa., Number of bruises were suffered by Mrs. Elmer J. Thompson of West Middlesex, when the automobile in which she was riding was struck by a north bound Pennsylvania train at Thompson's Crossing late yesterday. Her husband, who accompanied her, was practically uninjured.

First aid was rendered to the party by Dr. H. E. Massy, a member of the Sharon fishing club, who were on the train when it struck the car.

New Code For Woman Driver

DENVER, July 30.—That women drivers shall always have the right-of-way was the latest amendment of this city's courtesy traffic code.

Women would always be given the right-of-way, whether they were entitled to it or not, declared R. F. Harshey, manager of safety. In this way, he thinks, there will be fewer accidents and fewer disputes.

PETERS ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

By Florence Smith Vincent

COAT OF MANY COLORS

Great Grandfather Always-Catch-It gave a hop that carried him close to Peter and then grinned so broadly that the boy was sure the ends of his mouth must be meeting at the back of his green head. Then, when he did speak, the old Frog answered Peter's question with another one.

"How do you think I got my name?" asked Great Grandfather, and all the Frogs bent forward to hear what the boy would reply.

"Because you never fail to capture your prey!" answered Peter, certain he was correct this time. All the Frogs croaked approval and Great Grandfather nodded.

"Right-o!" declared he, "I always catch it. Water bug or land flyer, it makes no difference. Let it venture within my reach and it is lost to the world forever. How do I do it, you ask? Take a good look at me, Two-Legs! What color am I?"

"Green!" cried the boy at once, then he added, quickly:

"No, you're not, either! That is, not all of you is green. Your coat is, but your feet are brown, and you have yellow spots on your back and dark stripes over your shoulders, and—"

Great Grandfather interrupted him.

"Good. You are a very observing youngster!" said he. "I like you and I am going to let you into our secret. Why do you suppose a Frog wears all these colors? Not just to look pretty, I hope."

"I don't know; I never thought about it!" said the boy, slowly. "Why do you?"

"For protection's sake, of course!" replied Great Grandfather, and the Frogs cried in chorus.

"For protection's sake, of course. That is the Froggies secret!"

"My green coat is beautiful. I will admit, but it is useful as well; it is just the shade of the leaves and grass, and those stripes over my shoulders and down my back look like plant stems. As for those yellow spots they appear like flower stamens. My feet are brown, like the bare earth on which I sometimes hop. See how the sun makes the water glisten like silver? My vest gleams like glimmering water. When I am in the shallows you could scarcely tell where my vest begins and the ripples leave off.

"WHEN I KEEP QUIET I AM WELL HIDDEN."

"My coat of many colors is my best friend. Come, now you Two-Legs, I leave it to you. Should I sit perfectly still in the pond or underneath a plant upon the shore one would need to have very bright eyes to find me, wouldn't he?"

"I should say so!" declared Peter.

"The thing that usually gives me away is my breathing," said Great Grandfather. "See, my breast goes in and out, like this!" Grandfather illustrated by puffing out his plump chest. "And my eyes are too bright. They shine when I wish they wouldn't and they are so big! To be sure, I'm proud of them, but small eyes might be safer.

"As I was about to say, though, when I keep perfectly quiet I am hidden, even when I am almost in the open. My clothes are so much like my surroundings. But to be undiscovered, I must keep still. No sly sneaking off for me! I can't sneak. I must hop! My back legs are so much longer, too, than my front ones, that it is quite useless to try to hop smoothly. Try as I will, I always jerk, and, of course, then folks know right away who is coming."

Woman Would Be Road Supervisor

First Woman To Seek This Office To Be Candidate In Neshannock Twp.

Man's domain is agin invaded by woman and this time, the attack is in a place and manner entirely unexpected, for as far as this district is concerned at least, woman has never before entered into the work that is connected with the care and upkeep of the roads.

Neshannock township is to receive the usual honor connection with this innovation and is to have a woman candidate for road supervisor. The candidate is Mrs. B. H. Hitchcock, wife of the well known merchant of this city.

Having established her residence in Neshannock township, where she and her husband, have had extensive real estate and property holdings for some time, she has become vitally interested in the road problems of the district and has determined to take an active part in the improvement and care of the roads by seeking election as a supervisor.

In speaking of her candidacy today, Mrs. Hitchcock, said,—"I know that its not exactly a woman's job, that of acting as and working on the public roads as supervisor, but sometimes a woman can do better on a job like this than a man. It looks as if this might be true in Neshannock township, the way my announcement as a candidate has been received and I'm in the race until the finish, win or lose, but I'm going to win. Then I'll show them what a woman can do on a job like this.

"I propose a business administration of the care of the roads in Neshannock township and propose that the taxpayers get their money's worth, if the voters put me into that position. I'll do all I can to put Neshannock township on the map in the matter of good roads, if elected, and the taxpayers will get their money's worth.

Trusties Start Work On New Penitentiary

NORISTOWN, Pa., July 30.—The new Eastern penitentiary is now under construction at Skippack, Montgomery county, 12 miles north of here, the first work toward the $2,000,000 institution being done by a convict gang of "trusties."

Within the next few weeks between 200 and 300 convicts will be put to work on the preliminary excavations all of them to be transported to and from their work each day from the Eastern penitentiary at Philadelphia under heavy guard.

The state highway department has been requested to close all roads in the immediate vicinity of the prison site to guard the convicts from the curiosity of motor tourists and as a precaution against the possibility of a concerted break for liberty.

Farmhouses that now occupy the area of the new prison are to be remodeled into barracks for the civilan supervisors of the construction work. All convicts have been chosen from the prison personnel for aptitude in different branches of the building trades.

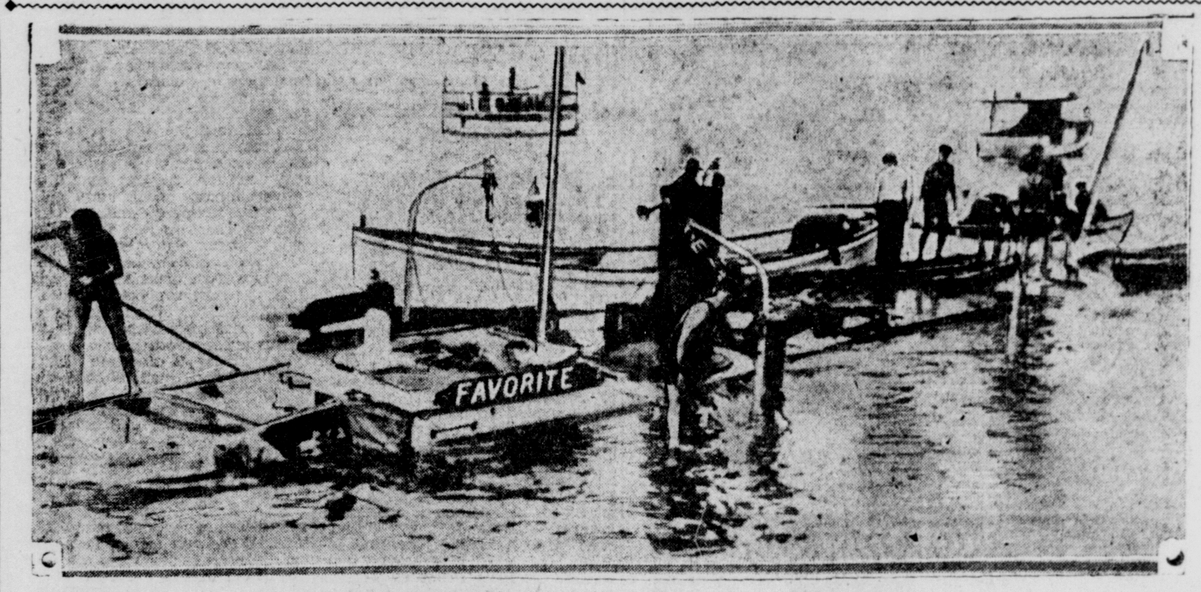

A stone stockade to surround the 1,500 acres of the prison site will be one of the first construction jobs undertaken.

On its completion the working prisoners will be encamped within the stockade to obviate the necessity of transporting them from the Philadelphia prison.

Stone quarries on the prison site itself will be worked to provide the stone for the new prison.

While no time limit has been set on the construction it is estimated that it will require several years before the new penitentiary can be opened.

SCORES DIE IN SHIP DISASTER

Large Crowd At First Christian Sunday School Picnic

Attractive Program Of Sports Carried Out; Prizes Given To Winners

In spite of the theatening weather nearly 300 were present at the First Christian Sunday school picnic at Lakewood on Friday.

The skies cleared in the afternoon and allowed the sports program to be carried out in full. A great deal of interest was shown in the whole program which consisted of races for all classes, baseball, horse shoes and bathing.

The table committee consisting of Mrs. Needler chairman; assisted by several of the ladies provided a fine supper.

The Sunday school orchestra with Mr. Williams, leader, provided music for the evening.

The transportation committee consisting of Mr. Herbold, chairman, Mr. Stone and Mr. Stump found transportation for everyone and are to be commended.

The sports were in charge of Mr. Patton, chairman, Miss Dart and Caroline Donley.

Some of the prize winners were Mike Chirrozi, Anna Marie Roland, Dick Houk, Bert Coates, Harold McEwen, James Herbold, Russell Funkhouser, Catherine Llewellen, Agnes Patton, Archie Gray, Mrs. Book, Mrs. Holcomb and Mrs. Eakin.

The deacons led by Mr. Butler, easily won the horse shoe contest, Mr. Butler throwing five ringers out of six.

Special mention is due Frank Young who was general chairman of the picnic. His great efforts will be rewarded and we look for a bigger and better picnic next year which is promised by the enthusiasm and interest and growth now shown in our school.

Rev. George Landis To Give Special Object Lesson

On Sunday evening in the First Baptist church at 8 o'clock the pastor, Rev. George M. Landis, will give an object sermon entitled "The World's Greatest Magnet".

This message will be of special interest to the boys and girls although older folks may profit by attending the service.

Erie Hollyhocks Getting Closer

New Castle Still Leads By About Foot It Appears

New Castle has scored again in the great hollyhock contest. Mrs. George Dunn of Highland avenue, that city who was really responsible for all this excitement between the two cities when she reported a stalk over 11 feet, now comes back with the report that the same stalk has reached a height of eleven feet and eight inches, having gained three inches in the last two weeks. Wonder what they use for fertilizer down that way! Our Erie hollyhocks do not begin to grow as fast as that and there is evidently some reason for it.

However, Erie like Commodore Perry is not ready to "give up the ship." We are just getting our second wind and are preparing for a strong finish.

Mrs. Frauk Young of 1037 West Twenty-second street leads so far in the local contest. She has reported a hock ten feet and ten inches. In her letter to the Garden Editor, Mrs. Young says:

"Have been reading in the Dispatch-Herald about the hollyhock contest and I may say that I have taken more than usual interest in it because I feel that perhaps I have the tallest stalk in Erie. Two, of my neighbors were in today and helped me measure it and we made out it measured ten feet ten inches.

Who can beat Mrs. Young's hollyhock?

Mrs. S. C. Crawford of 731 Rosedale avenue is a close second with a stalk ten feet seven inches.

Next in order of height is I. Rosenthal of 136 West Twenty-sixth street whose hollyhocks measure ten feet, six inches. Branches on this stalk measure two feet.

Mrs. C. H. Frampton of R. D. 2, Erie, Pa., has some very beautiful hollyhocks, even if they are not so tall. In a letter to the Garden Editor Mrs. Frampton says: "We have beautiful hollyhocks of all colors and single and double. The tallest stalk is nine feet seven inches. We reside on the Ridge road west of Erie at Asbury church.—Erie Dispatch-Herald.

Rev. Stough To Leave On Vacation Trip

He And His Wife To Motor To Atlantic City And Other Eastern Points

Rev. F. E. Stough pastor of St. John's Lutheran church of this city and his wife will leave Monday morning for a vacation trip to Atlantic City where they will spend two weeks.

Rev. and Mrs. Stough will make the journey by auto going by way of the Roosevelt highway. On their return home they will visit in Philadelphia, Hamilton and points in Westmoreland county. They expect to return to New Castle about August 25.

At a recent dinner of the Ladies Aid society the members presented Rev. Stough with a handsome pulpit gown as a gift on his birthday which he expects to wear at the services on Sunday. In the morning he will preach on the theme "The Great Refusal." There will be baptism of children. No services in the evening.

Saving of at least one business day to patrons of a projected air mail service between Chicago and Cincinnati, by way of Indianapolis, is expected by those who have prepared the tentative schedule to co-operate with the railroads. The service will connect with the transcontinental air mail line at Chicago daily.

Breaks Neck In Dive Into River

SHARON, July 30.—Harry Herbert, 16, of Orchard street, is reported to be still living at the Buhl hospital after having received a broken neck while swimming in the Shenango river near Clarksville Thurday night.

The accident occurred when he dove into shallow water and struck his head on the bottom.

Air Mail Receives Big Impetus Here

Clerks at the New Castle postoffice say that more air mail has been received for dispatch from the local office since interest was aroused in aviation by Colonel Charles Lindbergh's wonderful feat.

Most of the mail received here for dispatch by air is for points on the Pacific coast with a few letters for foreign countries.

Mail posted at New Castle to be sent by air mail is dispatched by train either for Youngstown or Cleveland according to the hour of day that it is received. It it is posted before 12:30 p. m. at New Castle it is sent to Youngstown to connect with the mail plane leaving there at 3:15 p. m. Otherwise it connects with the planes at Cleveland, one due there at 3:35 p. m. and the other at 1:30 a m.

Letters mailed in New Castle will be delivered to Los Angeles in 28 hours. Letters for Hawaii, Japan and China and the east will be delivered to mail steamers at the Pacific ports.

There has been some misunderstanding as to the rate of postage on air mail, especially the difference between the domestic rates and the foreign rates.

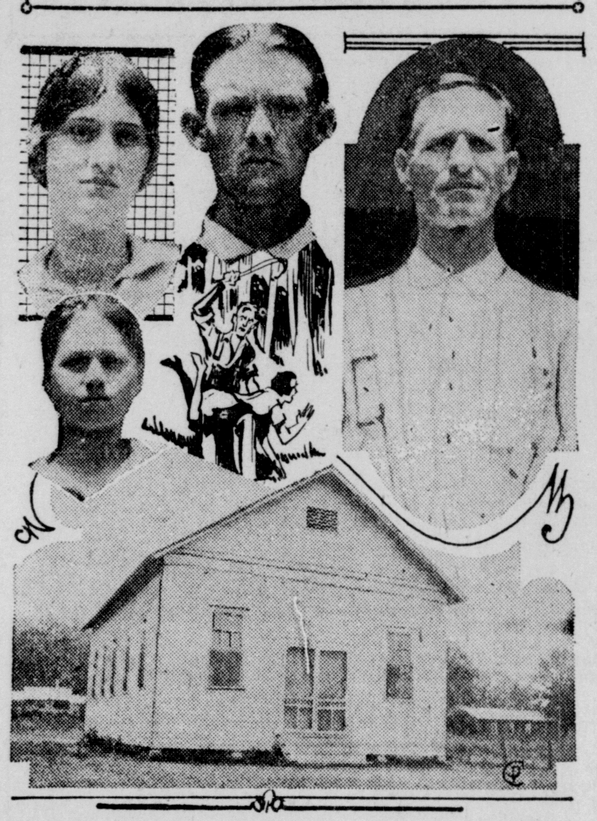

The rates for air mail is given as 10 cents for each half-ounce or fraction thereof for domestic mail or mail destined for Canada or other foreign countries that have the regular two cent convention for ordinary mail.

For countries which do not have the two cent convention the rate is 10 cents for each half ounce for air mail and domestic handling in the United States and three cents additional for the first ounce and one cent additional for each additional ounce to cover excess charges on mail in these countries.

In other words the rate for air mail for the first half ounce is the regular postage plus eight cents no matter where the letter is dispatched.

But, iti s said, there are hundreds of letters daily posted in the United States for air mail dispatch at seaboard and delivery in foreign countries that never get on the airplane because of failure to meet the requirements. Such mail is forwarded by rail as a result of which the mailer gets no advantage for whatever extra postage he paid.

GIRL OBJECTS TO FLOGGING

When his daughter refused to "pray her way through" after he discovered her receiving notes in church from an admirer who later became her husband, the Rev. E. H. Owens, Pentecostal evangelist, of Lonoke, Ark., took her to the woods and whipped her with a razor strop, along with her small sister who sympathized, his daughter told the district attorney. The evangelist was arrested on a charge of assault. Owens is shown above, to the right. The daughters, Joyce, 16, now Mrs. John Lowe, and Jewell, 11, with John Lowe, are on the left. Below is a view of the Pentecostal church at Lonoke.

Withers Announces His Candidacy For Office Of Mayor

Presents His Name To Voters Subject To Republican Party Primaries

To the Electorate of New Castle:

I am a candidate for Mayor, Republican primaries September 20, 1927. Two years ago I was a candidate for school director and you gave me a surprising vote. If you have read the papers you should know that I served you as well as I knew how. What you do not know is that I served you best when I resigned. The three men whom you elected two years ago on an economical platform were received by the majority of the board with hostility and from the very first economy was taboo.

At one of the last meetings of the board which I attended the architect was instructed by resolution to proceed with plans and specifications, according to temporary plans submitted for an addition to the Senior High school, which I knew would cost close up to $400,000. The bids according to those plans were never opened, because members of the board knew in advance what I knew later, that had they been opened the cost would have been nearly $420,000. Had I not resigned I believe this contract would have been let at those figures, for I could not imagine my motion to reject all bids being carried. To cut it short, I resigned because I could not be a party to the riotous expenditure of your money, in which the board was about to indulge. I came to believe that, for pure contrariness they would be more reckless because of my objections than they would if I was not there. If you read all the school board news you will know by now whether I was justified in that belief. Since my resignation you have not once heard of the proposed $750,000 Junior High school; in fact, two of its most ardent supporters during the bond issue campaign have had a change of heart and refused to vote even $560,000 for it.

I do not believe industrial conditions in New Castle these last three or four years justify the reckless expenditures in which the city council or the school board are indulging. Our wives know by the size of the pay envelope that the war is over and that they must govern their expenditures accordingly. It is time, and past time, that the city council and the school board should know it also.

I believe in improvements and have done my share in New Castle these last 30 years, but there are times when we should go slow. The office of Mayor is an important one, and I think the position should be filled by one who will be governed not by conditions that have been, nor by conditions which we all hope to see, but by conditions as they are now. I think you should all be tired reading the nonsense these last two or three years that industrial conditions were satisfactory in New Castle. We need new industries in this city, and I believe the best inducement we can offer to such industries is LOW TAXES.

While I will appreciate your vote and influence, I hope you will all turn out and vote for the man whom you believe will best serve the interests of our own New Castle.

R. T. WITHERS.

New Playground Added This Week

Children Organize At Ben Franklin High School; Other News Of Playgrounds

A new playground was opened at the Benjamin Franklin Junior high school this week. The children there decided on the following officers: mayor, Harold Dickson; chief of police, Harold Brian; secretary, Mary Miller; caretaker, Wilber Perry; policemen, John Shaughnessy, Bill Snyder, Clara Fanrue, Helen Masko, Freddie Colio and Catherine Shaughnessy.

With the cooperation of the chief-of-police and patromen Longstreet, Croton, Sheep Hill and West Side get a ride once a week to the Junior High for a swim. The pool is open three mornings a week. Mrs. Robinson the like saver at McCleary beach is in charge. The pool is open to the children who care to walk, any of the three days.

The Gaston playground had jack, jack straws and marble contests this week. Helen Zuzow won the jack straw contest, Ruth Nene the jack contest, Katherine Dennis, the marble contest and William Bagshaw, boys jacks contest.

An ice-cream and cake social which the children thoroughly enjoyed was held at this place this week. A pet show was also staged and the winners are as follows: kitty and pussy owned by Mary Jokowiez; "Billie" the ground hog, Bob Anderson. Whitey the pigeon, John Baret; Jack the duck, Maxwell Cegielka; Rooster, Charles Baret; Peter Rabbit, Steve Baret; Rover the dog, most tricks, Norman Lewis.

A city playground marble contest was staged. The winners are as follows: first place, Jennie Abraham; second place, Fred George; third place, Joe Boran. One or two of these boys may represent New Castle at the state-wide contest next Spring.

A horseshoe contest for junior boys was held also. Each playground had a team to represent it. McCleary had the winning team. It was composed of Mickey Winters and Haskel Kitchen.

STICKING TONGUE AT COP COSTLY

NICE, France, July 30.—Making faces at a French policeman has just cost an American society woman 100 francs.

Mrs. Elizabeth Payne of New York, got caught in a traffic jam at Cannes. When a policeman began giving orders to her chauffeur, Mrs. Payne stuck out her tongue and made faces at the officer, he testified in the court that fined her.

State Police On Guard As Cows Are Given Inspection

Veterinarians Make Inspection Of York County Cows Under Heavy Guard

(International News Service)

YORK, Pa., July 30.—Taking advantage of an armed truce, enforced by a display of arms by a detachment of 42 state police, veterinarians of the state department of animal husbandry today completed their work of testing cattle on York county farms for tuberculosis.

Nearly a hundred farmers gathered in Hopewell township when the bureau of animal husbandry attaches attempted to begin their testing yesterday, and only a display of arms by the troopers persuaded the irate farmers to disperse with their weapons, clubs, stones and pitchforks with which they had planned to resist the examinations.

The farmers abandoned their display of force, but retired to their farms, from which in many instances whole herds of cattle mysteriously disappeared. The officials reported difficulty in locating many of the cows they had hoped to examine.

The "cattle testing war" was an echo of a similar episode in Lancaster county last year when farmers resisted efforts to examine their herds.

Name "Miss Ohio" In State Contest

CEDAR POINT, O., July 30.—A petite blonde of 18 was picked from ten contestants here last night to represent Ohio in the national bathing beauty pageant to be held at Atlantic City next month. She is Miss Evelyn Wilgus, who was "Miss Russels Point" but who now is "Miss Ohio" for 1927.

The winner represented Russels Point, a resort on Indian lake, Logan county.

Leo G. Griffiths Given Promotion

Made Manager Of Pittsburgh Branch Of Cassatt And Company

Leo G. Griffith of Pittsburgh, but formerly of New Castle, has been appointed to the managership of the Pittsburgh branch of Cassatt and company, Philadelphia investment house, which has eleven branches throughout the country, it was announced today.

Mr. Griffith has been connected with the Pittsburgh offices in the Union Bank building for over seven years, and has a wide circle of friends both in the business and fraternal worlds.

Mr. Griffith is a graduate of St. Mary's schools and the New Castle Business College, and was first employed as chief clerk to the late Charles C. Duff, city treasurer. Later he was connected with the New Castle Telephone company, now merged with the Bell system.

He is frequent visitor to his old home town, where the Griffith family and relatives still live.

Among Mr. Griffith's activities are a directorship in the Bollinger-Andrews Construction company; a membership in the Keystone Athletic club; a membership in the board of Incorporators of the St. Paul's Orphan Asylum and of the St. Francis hospital; a membership in the xecutive committee of the World Alliance for International Peace; a membership in the Pittsburgh chapter of the American Institute of Banking, and the Bankers' and Bank Clerk's Mutual Benefit association.

Police Benefit Game Nets $277 For Henry Home

Following is the report of the committee which had charge of the Margaret Henry Home playground equipment benefit held recently in the form of a baseball game between the Leslie Stars and the police team, played at Centennial field. The committee's report to the public follows:

To the Public of the City of New Castle:

We, the undersigned committee handling the ticket sale for the Margaret Henry Home playground equipment benefit held recently, desire to express our appreciation and extend our thanks to all persons in any way connected, for their support. We also desire to thank the management of the Rieck-McJunkin company and the Lawrence Bottling & Manufacturing company for supplying sufficient ice cream and soft drinks as a treat to the children of the home.

Our report covering the receipts and disbursements are as follows: Tickets printed, 5000; unsold tickets returned, 3770; balance, 1230; tickets not returned, 62; tickets sold, 1168. Total receipts, $292. Expenses: four baseballs, $4; printing tickets, $10; delivery service, $1; total expenses, $15. Total expense, $15, from total receipts, $292, equals balance cash on hand, $277.

Respectfully submitted,

Rum Runner Is Seized On Lake

SANDUSKY, O., July 30.—Fifty-three cases of alleged beer and ale were taken from the cruiser Colette and dumper into Sandusky bay yesterday after the coast guardsmen had captured the cruiser in Maumee bay.

The craft was anchored off Harbor View beach and was deserted when the men boarded it. Two men were seen to slip over the side and swim for shore at the approach of the rum chaser.

Reports say that the Lodi grape crop will be normal. That probably means more than one-half of one percent.—San Bernardino Sun.

DISLOCATES JAW IN WATERMELON FEAST

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 30.—George Ray, 55, likes watermelon, but never before had taken such a big bite as he did today. His supply proved so tempting he taxed his jaw to the limit.

The result was a dislocated jawbone. Efforts of police to close his wide open mouth failed, but at the General hospital a blow on the chin did the work.

Install Officers; Name Committees At P. H. C. Meeting

Supreme Auditor Dr. R. G. Baird In Charge; Excellent Program Presented

The most interesting feature of the session held by New Castle Circle, No. 5, P. H. C., on Thursday night was the installation of officers. Beautiful and impressive at all times, it was even more so with the supreme auditor, Dr. R. G. Baird, of Sharon, in charge, assisted by the wonderful Knickerbocker team of the circle.

Dr. Baird's charge to the officers-elect not only admonished them of the responsibility that had been placed upon them by the circle, but to the members also he urged their loyalty and support.

New Castle Circle, No. 5, the second largest circle in membership in the organization, was instituted on July 7, 1887. And during the years of its wonderful progress it has counted among its members many of the leading and prominent citizens of the city.

Always in order, its social affairs have featured many events, and their annual outings always call together the big fraternal family, including a large number of circles throughout the district.

The picnic to be held at Cascade Park promises to be the largest ever held by the circle. There will be fun for everyone and a cash prize to the circle sending the largest number of members. This, with prizes for the winners in the games, free dancing, coffee, cream, etc., will also add to the big time.

The retiring officers on Thursday night completed another successful term for the local circle. President Roy Erwin made a faithful and conscientious presiding officer at all times and again the circle welcomes a lady at the helm.

Leota Langsdale is well chosen to handle the affairs of the circle, of unusual executive ability and pleasing personality. No. 5 is assured of another successful term.

It is not necessary to refer to the ability of Emma J. Goss as guardian of the circle. Her many re-elections to this important office is witness to that.

Following the installation an excellent program, assisted by visitors from Sharon, was warmly received.

Samuel Haywood, director of the Sharon team, with his daughter, Miss Rebecca, contributed delightful vocal numbers and Mrs. Haywood gave a bright, snappy little address. Service Man W. S. Huey knows just what to say and when to say it. Huey, come again; you brought the right kind of stuff.

We all enjoyed the remarks of Brother Phil G. Greer, and of course Dr. Baird was in fine trim for one of his excellent addresses. How that man ever thinks up so many good things to say is beyond the writer.

Then, too, it's hard to keep up with him when he once gets started. Ask George Muse.

Another fine number on the program was the duet by Samuel Haywood and our pianist, Catherine Badger. Their voices certainly blend beautifully together and they were showered with applause. Little Lew and Doris Badger also added to the program, which closed with a splendid lunch served by the guardian and her committee.

The installation of officers and appointment of committees by the chair follow:—

President, Leota Langsdale; vice president, Gladys Erwin; guardian, Emma J. Goss; secretary, Lillie B. Jones; accountant, George W. Muse; treasurer, George W. Wyman; chaplain, Edith Campbell; guide, Walter Thompson; companion, Mary Patterson; sentinel, Edna Crain; watchman, Etta Welch; past president, Roy Erwin; committees: auditing committee, P. P. Frank Kennedy, P. P. Roy Irwin, P. P. Esther Jefferies; standing committees: good of the order, Emma J. Goss, Margaret Hammond, Gertrude Halboth, Mary Patterson, Mrs. Roy Erwin, Belle Kennedy, Esther Jefferies, Gladys Erwin, Grace Hoover, Etta Welch, Roy Erwin, Frank Kennedy, Jack Langsdale; relief committee: chairman, the president, Grace Hoover; Mrs. Patterson, Mrs. Hilliard, Ruth Walker, Katherine Badger, Amanda Dandy; reception committee: Lillie B. Jones, Gertrude Halboth, Belle Kennedy, Clara Cunningham, Grace Hoover, Telitha Richards, Gladys Erwin, J. L. Cunningham; music committee: Katherine Badger, chairman.

LILLIE B. JONES,
Secretary.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A storm wave of moderate intensity is expected to cross continent during week centering on July 29; this storm center will be expected to travel the northern transcontinental storm path and to have little effect in southern latitudes; as this storm center crosses continent, a general movement to lower average temperatures will take place; this downward trend of temperatures will extend thru the period of July 29 to August 6, causing a wide range of extremes between the period of heat expected to center on July 28 and the period of below normal temperatures expected to center on August 6.

What is termed the northern transcontinental storm path of North America, which I have described in these bulletins before, but continue to receive many requests describe, is the average path traveled by storms that originate or are first noticeable in the northwest section of North America, move in an easterly direction at the average rate of 500 miles a day until they leave this continent. Almost without exception, all storms of North America leave the continent thru the St. Lawrence valley or thru the New England states. Occasionally, one of these northern transcontinental storms will be forced or drawn south thru the great central valleys, sometimes as far south as the Gulf. Seven out of ten of all North American transcontinental storms are first noticeable near the U. S.-Canadian line west of meridian 105; meridian 105 almost divides Saskatchewan in halves and is near the eastern boundary of Montana and Wyoming. Unless given other description, all storms mentioned in these weekly bulletins are transcontinental and it is the intention to specify in each case whether storm will travel the northern or southern path.

August Weather Features

August 1927 will add another month of great extremes to the year's already extreme record. One very severe storm wave near 27, moderate storms near 2, 8 and 17. First half of month will average below and last half above normal temperatures. Northern cold waves near 5 and 31 will be the danger periods of the month relative to northern killing frosts. Principal periods of heat will be expected near 18 and 27. Month will average about normal temperatures in northern and below normal in southern sections east of Rockies; above normal temperatures west of Rockies. Precipitation will increase in east Gulf, south Atlantic and eastern great valleys sections; below normal precipitation on eastern slopes and south Pacific slope; about normal precipitation on north Pacific slope; most precipitation near 6 and 30. A fair cropweather month in general; most dangerous cropweather features will be the temperature extremes in northern sections, decreasing precipitation on eastern slopes and probably more moisture than will be wanted in east Gulf and south Atlantic states near 5 and 30.

Frogs	3	1	.750
Pie Rats	3	1	.750
Snipes	1	3	.250
Hop Toads	1	3	.250

Spook Hike

Spooks, ghosts! It was a scared-shivery party that wended its way slowly from the Y. M. camp to search through haunted paths. Only a few remained behind because of sore feet, perhaps a few of "cold feet".

A success——yes, according to all those who attended they had a real spooky time, when volunteers for exploration of the haunted house were called for. Bob Golder proved himself to be a man of real courage by "breaking the ice". Following Bob, volunteers to the extent of about half of the boys went through the house.

Fisher Bros. And Buckeye Plant Plan Gathering

Big Event Is Scheduled For Tuesday Evening At Athletic Field

Plans have practically been completed for a huge gathering of all former and present Fisher Bros., and Buckeye Garment Works employes. The affair will be held Tuesday night, August 2, at the new Buckeye Athletic Field adjacent to the Buckeye Works on Butler avenue extension.

The main feature of the evening will be a baseball game between the Buckeye team and the Wilder Conover Ice Cream Co. team, which will commence at 6:30 promptly. This game will be hard fought as great rivalry has sprung up between these teams since the defeat that the Wilder Conover team suffered in a recent close game. The Ice Cream Makers will be loaded and primed for this battle as will the Buckeye team who have been recently strengthened by four players from the Fisher Bros. office division, among them being Orville Brown, who is now playing the kind of ball that featured him during his college days. The other additions being Jack Travers, Karl Fries and Andy Hartman, who are also college stars.

Andy Sekely, business manager of the team, who is grand chairman of the events has been fortunate in securing a very good string quartet which will furnish music during the game and during the serving of refreshments which will be immediately following the game. Free souvenirs will be given away and the public at large is also invited to attend.

EVER GO FISHING ?
Remember the carefree days when as a barefoot boy you went fishing? You will be able to live them all over again in the leisure of a secure old age if you have an Equitable policy for a goodly sum maturing when you are, say, 55 or 60. Now is the time to begin saving. Many a man of 50 or older, who would really enjoy fishing, cannot go because he must keep his nose to the grindstone. A maturing Equitable policy will give you this means to buy leisure—and fishing tackle—in your old age.

Lindbergh Flight Boosts Air Mail

Big Increase In Aviation In General Also Apparent After Flight

Colonel Lindbergh's flight to Paris has done more than any other thing to advance interest in aviation in America, it is declared. Since then there has been an enormous increase in air mail service in this country and a greatly awakened interest among municipalities in the establishing of air ports.

Government reports show that there are now 845 fully equipped airports in the United States and it is predicted by federal authorities that the total will be raised to 1,000 by the end of the year. In addition there will be hundreds of other landing fields which do not come under the classification of being fully equipped.

It is also said that when the public comes to understand that air mail may be deposited in any mail box. Failure of the American people to appreciate this fact is said to be the chief deterrent to widespread use of air mail service for both business and social mail.

This misunderstanding arose, it is said, through the establishment of special red-white-blue mail boxes as depositories for air mail only. This arrangement was essential during the incipiency of air mail and still serves a definite need since last minute collections are made from such boxes to connect with departing airplanes. But mailers desiring to use air mail and posting their letter just before the last collection previous to the closing hour on air mail at the central post office may just as well post their air mail in the nearest regular letter box.

Ann Arbor Has 65 Football Candidates

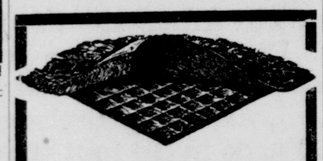

(International News Service)
ANN ARBOR, Mich., July 30--Sixty-five prospective candidates for Michigan's 1927 varsity football eleven are soon to receive the call for their appearance on Ferry Field at the opening of Fall practise, September 15, Coach Fielding H. Yost announced. Of the total eight are veterans of two years experience, while ten have one year of varsity training to their credit.

Bruce Hulbert sophomore guard from Kenilworth, Ill., is the biggest man on the roster, tipping the beams at 210 pounds .He is the only member of the squad, in fact who tops 200 pounds, most of the men averaging close to 175 or 180 pounds while no less than eleven are 160 pounds or less.

ONLY INCIDENTAL

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., July 30.—Receiving a half million dollars as a legacy turned out to be only an incident in the life of John Gray, section hand. At least Gray treated the matter as incidental. He was working near the Port Kent station when notified that a long distance call from New York City awaited him. He hurried to town, received the news that he was heir to $500,000, and then went back with his pick and shovel to finish the day's work. Gray's father was a physician who conducted a sanitarium at Port Kent,

Soldiers' Memorial Committee Will Meet On Monday

Some Action As To Memorial Plot May Be Taken At Meeting

There will be a meeting of the Soldiers' Memorial committee of the Veterans of Foreign Wars Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the Veterans' hall.

For some time the committee, which is composed of Ivor V. Davis, chairman, George Runkle, Harold Clapie, George Thompson, and Orville Potter, has been arranging to purchase a burial plot somewhere in Lawrence county, but as yet no definite plans have been made.

It is urged by Ivor V. Davis, the chairman, that all members be present at this meeting.

Mr. Davis stated that there are many cities much smaller than New Castle which have their own memorial, and the need for it here is growing so fast that something will have to be done in the very near future. Plans have been submitted by architects, but as yet none have been accepted.

The memorial was first thought of four years ago at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Reunion, held in New Castle. At the 1926 convention of the organization, Mr. Clappie presented the matter to the body, and since that time both New Brighton and Butler have already dedicated their memorial plots.

A $10 APPETITE

NEW YORK, July 30.—Because of his liking for $10 bills as a part of his diet, Bobby, a Scotch terrier, owned by John Mark, Chinese laundryman, has gotten his master into trouble. Bobby sat inside the door of the shop eating a $10 bill with relish when a passerby noticed him and entered. Bobby consumed the bill and started on another from a roll on the floor when the stranger called the police. Investigation followed when the laundryman explained that he kept the roll hidden in the bunk where he and Bobby slept. Detectives found a revolver in the bunk and arrested Mark for violating the Sullivan law.

Final Award Of Scalps Made At Camp Phillips

With the largest class of "Scalp Seekers" in the history of the camp, the final award of scalps took place last night in the auditorium in the presence of all the campers and many interested visitors. Scout Executive J. Lee Calahan presided over the exercises which opened with lively scout songs, followed by a fitting address by the presiding officer who reviewed the significant events of the summer camp and outlined the program of work to be completed by all the scouts at home and at the weekly meetings of the various troops in the County. Corroborating his remarks by facts and figures, the Executive announced that this session of camping season has been best ever had, both from the point of view of discipline, health record and accomplishments along the line of scout proficiency. Both Senior and Junior officers and the camp director Mr. L. M. Norton were described as the most hard working, efficient and congenial staff in charge of the Scout camp. Mr. Norton was then called to make the presentation of the Honor Scalps to fifty two boys, called by classes in the progressive order of awards. First came the "Wayseekers", Nunizio Fiala, Harry Baker, H. Kelso, Robert Morrison, Robert McKibbin, Lawrence Kaufman, Bill Kelly, Charles Hertzog, Harry Hess, Bob Emery, Clare Ebert, Bill Donaldson, Lloyd Davis, Frank Dorsey, Robert Close, Charles Criss, Tom Barnes and Tom Hawkins. The "Pathfinders" were called next, Robert Morrison, Nathaniel Book, Bookie Helling, Hans Holm, Dave Long, Norbert Linder, Dick McLure, Gerald Newton, Wayne Rees, Julius Sacripant, William Patterson, Clare Kelso, Clare Ebert and R. Bentram. The "Runners" followed, Jeffrey Sowash, William Thomas, C. Fowlett, J. Wilson and J. Swick. The "Braves", Jack Stevenson and Bob Wilson. The "Sagamore, Art Smith. The "Sachem", Don Cloak. Lastly the insignia of "Grand Sachem" were conferred upon, John Boston, James Metzler, Tedd Ropp, John Rancher, Paul Wilson and Bill McKim. Practical and valuable knowledge was aquired by these scouts which will enable them to better live the scout motto "A Scout is ready".

High Point Scorer and Inspection

For the second time during this third camping period Jeffrey Sowash was the highest point scorer with 240 honor points, an uncommon occurence. Robert Emery with 145 points came in second in the daily competition. The inspection reports show that for the second consecutive day the Dave Thompson Stockade comprised of three huts won the coveted Honor Camp Banner, whilst the capping inspection rating by hut was attained by the kitchen police hut with a marking of 95, Bob Shields being the leader.

The Swimming merit badge was accorded to Harold Burry by Jack Hulme examiner. Knowledge of the compass was passed by L. Kaufman, D. Kennedy and John Swick, the latter passing also signaling, blanket roll, achievement, stars and constellations and artificial respiration.

Games

The Kit Carsons met the Dan Boones in a hard ball game and won by a score of 3 to 0, the Carsons emerging as the champion team of the season never having endured defeat in all the games participated in, the line up being formed by Hannon, Linder, Greer, Eckles, Gillest, Fowlett, Renner, H. Y. Charbonnier, Von Berg and Anderson. The same team played a game with the Dave Crocketts, final score 1 to 1. In a soft ball game the Dan Boones topped the Dave Thompson by a score of 19 to 1, the winning players were, McKim, Helling, Thomas, Newton, Burry, Cloak, Jenkins, Clark, and Smith. The Kit Carsons defeated the Dave Crocketts in a soft ball game by a score of 1 to 0, the victors being, Douglass, Sacripant, Von Berg, Clare Kelso, Smith, Swick, H. Kelso and Stockers.

John Boston, versed in Nature studies has been in charge of the collection and classification of numerous specimens which are a conspicuous part of the museum, which includes all the many sided merit badge articles made by the scouts. A public exhibition of all these articles will be held in the city at a later date as a Scout demonstration of all the aspects of the Scout program.

Spaghetti Supper A Succulent Affair

Assistant Scout Executive R. Knally of Ellwood City and Scoutmasters Jack Hulme of Westminster College and Rev. James Charbonnier of troop 20, New Castle arranged a parting social event in their quarters, the "Pine Cottage" under the guise of a spaghetti supper with all the "fixings". The invited guests were the other occupants of the "Pines" Rev. Andrew Signore, scoutmaster of the Hillsville troop, and Junior Officers Charles Raborman, Bob Calahan and Charles McConnell. Honor guests were Scout Executive J. Lee Calahan, camp director L. M. Norton, William G. Ayres of the Camp Committee, Samuel Mooney troop Committeeman and Scoutmaster Ralph F. Davis. The menu was relished with gusto, in spite of sinister rumors that Junior Officers occupants of other quarters would stage an attack to secure vantage seats at the banquet table. Prompt measures were taken to meet the critical situation and after an ineffectual attempt, the attackers retreated to their bunks. After dinner speeches were made interspersed with jokes and reminiscent anecdotes, the King's seat for wit and humor being retained by Executive Calahan from which he heigned absolute master.

I. O. O. F. PICNIC NEXT SATURDAY

Host Of Odd Fellows To Gather At Wayside Inn; Grove City News

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, Pa., July 30.—The annual picnic of the I. O. O. F. will be held at the Wayside Inn of this place Saturday, August 6. At a meeting of the committee in charge of the annual outing, at Mercer Wednesday evening, all preparations were made to make the picnic one of the greatest ever held. The committee is composed of two members from each Rebekah and each Odd Fellow lodge in the county. The Grove City members are Mrs. M. Simpson, Mrs. Esther Graham, George Styers and Gilbert Hoyt. The purpose of the picnic is to afford the orphans and members of the Wayside Inn an outing each year. One hundred orphans from the Meadville, Pa., home will be brought to Grove City by bus to attend the picnic. The Meadville band will entertain. A ball game will be played and the regular sport events will take place with handsome prizes to the winners.

Sixty bee owners attended the lecture and demonstration by C. N. Greene, chief apiary inspector at Harrisville Thursday afternoon. Mr. Greene gave a very instructive talk on how to keep bees better and how to keep better bees. He advocated the idea of re-queening with young bees each year to obtain better results and the thorough insulation and packing of the hive each winter. A bee association was organized and the following officers elected: President, T. V. Porter, Harrisville; vice president, D. B. Murphy, Butler; secretary and treasurer, J. A. Scannell, Franklin. The association plans to hold at least one meeting each year. The meeting was attended by bee owners from Grove City, Harrisville, Butler, Franklin, Sharon, New Castle and Guys Mills of Crawford county.

Misses Grace Wilson, Jean Mechling, Bernice Ladds, Ruth Uber, Sibbie Mechling and Lydabelle Graden have registered to attend the young people's conference at Meadville August 1-7. The conference affords a wonderful opportunity for instruction, recreation and social intercourse under Christian direction. Rev. William Ralph Hall, D. D., director of young people's work, will be the director of the conference. The other instructors will be Mrs. E. W. Polock, Cleveland, O.; R. J. Dosker, D. D., New York City; Miss Mary Macomber, Philadelphia; Rev. R. F. Cressy, Erie; Rev. O. G. Lawson, Bradford; Miss Bess Kohout, Erie, and Rev. John Paul Jones, Binghamton, N. Y.

Word has been received at the college that Dr. Weir C. Ketler and family, who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. J. N. Pew, Manchester, Vt., will return to Grove city by Monday.

Prof. and Mrs. A. M. Grimes entertained the members of the Monthly Bridge club at their apartments Friday evening. Four tables of the favorite game were in play during the evening.

Fellow Rotarian:

The first regular monthly business meeting of the new administration will be the program for Monday.

Leaders in Rotary are stressing the point that one of the best ways for Rotary to expand is through filling the open classifications in each club and also taking in second active members. Our club could profit by these suggestions. You surely know of some good man who should be in Rotary. Doc Campbell and his Classification Committee are busy compiling a list of open classifications and they would be glad to have your suggestions.

J. K. Heess is in St. Joseph's Hospital, Pittsburgh. He will be happy to see you or receive a card from you.

CARL E. PAISLEY, Sec'y.

NO KICK COMING

Mose and Sam had just cut a nice juicy watermelon. Being very courteous, Mose held both slices out to his companion, but to his surprise, Sam ignored good manners and chose the largest slice.

"Where is yo mannahs, niggah?" Mose said indignantly. "Why, if you had offered dem to me, I would have took de smallest piece."

"Whatcha gripin' about, then?" returned Sam with a satisfied air. "Dat's what you got, ain't it?—From the Los Angeles Times.

Success Attends Rotary Round-up At Country Club

Golf Match In The Afternoon Is Won By Mr. Wise, Rotarian From Zelienople

ELLWOOD CITY, July 30. — A Rotary round-up, the first of its kind in Ellwood City, was staged yesterday afternoon and evening at the Ellwood City Country Club for the Rotary Clubs of Beaver Valley and Zelienople.

One hundred and forty-nine Rotarians and their wives were present and enjoyed a program of sports and an interesting golf match for the men in the afternoon, which was won by Mr. Wise of Zelionople, while the Rotary-Annsa played bridge in the cooling shade of the verandas of the club house.

The banquet took place at 7 o'clock and was distinguished by President W. C. Wallace of Westminster College who gave a most interesting discourse on "The Heart of Rotary." The musical portion of the dinner program was in the capable hands of Mrs. Thelma Powell Schenck, who contributed two lovely vocal solos.

The balance of the evening, at the conclusion of a delicious menu, was devoted to dancing to the new Electrola, and a general good time. Attendance by cities was: 42 from Beaver Falls, 50 from Zelienople and 57 from Ellwood City.

Grandy Will Get Diploma

C. M. T. CAMP, Ft. Monroe, Va., July 30.—Everett C. Grandey of Ellwood City is among the men who will receive diplomas from this camp for satisfactorily completing the final course in the four-year training period covered by the C. M. T. C. Graduation exercises will be held on August 4.

Fifty-five of the 528 students now in camp will be graduated this year. Each graduate will be eligible for a commission as second lieutenant in the coast artillery reserve corps.

The diplomas will be presented to the graduates by Lieut. Col. George W. Cochou, officer commanding the camp.

With the Fascinating Music of

GULBRANSEN

Registering Piano

Timely Hints

1. The Gulbransen Registering Piano is wonderfully easy to play.
2. The music rests me and brings reverie and relaxation.
3. Its ease of pedaling permits me to forget the pedals and enjoy the music when I play.
4. It is easy to play with expression, for the expression control is mainly in the pedals.
5. A Gulbransen in my home will save me the effort of dressing and going out when I want to hear good music.
6. A little music after dinner makes me sleep soundly.
7. The Gulbransen pedals have that firm, easy, just-right feel; I can operate them for hours without tiring.
8. I won't have to strain my voice; the Transposing Device will enable me to play in any suitable key.
9. Singing with the Gulbransen will make me breathe deeply, quiet my nerves, and help break my worry habit.
10. I can sit in an easy chair and play the Gulbransen.

Large Bevy Of Girl Scouts Hear Last Instructions

ELLWOOD CITY, July 30.—Mrs. W. E. Renner and Mrs. John Hough who govern the activities of the Girl Scouts in Ellwood City conducted a meeting of the girls intending to go to camp this summer last evening at the Presbyterian church. Almost all the girls reported and received their instructions with regard to occupying Camp Phillips, the Boy Scout camp near Kennedy's Mills August 8 to 22. Mrs. Renner prefers that these instructions be printed the latter part of the week so that they will be fresh in the minds of the young campers. Miss Thompson the Community nurse will be with them part of the time. Mrs. Renner stated that about 37 girls planned to attend from this city and probably the same number from New Caestle, not including the scout leaders.

Ellwood City Lad Qualifies As Sharpshooter

FORT WASHINGTON, Md., July 30 —Of the 25 young men who thus far have qualified for medals as sharpshooters, four are from the New Castle district.

In Company I, Ralph Chase, Louis Harris, Jesse Pressler, Robert Snyder, all of Greenville, and Thomas Foust of Ellwood City have qualified for the medals.

Three hundred men qualified as marksman and the machine gun company has not yet completed its record. The percentage of qualifications in the rifle companies is 85.

Harry Best of Beaver was one of the winners by technical knockout at a boxing meet held lately at the camp. To provide an additional attraction a four-round bout was staged between two regular soldiers, which the judges declared to be a draw. An overdose of watermelon seems to have been a contributing factor in the downfall of the losers.

Last Minute Rush To Save Tax Discount

The last minute rush at the county court house to pay this years county taxes and secure the five per cent discount was on in full force this morning, it being the last day on which the taxes could be paid and the discount secured.

All morning long, the line of taxpayers desiring to pay taxes extended from the office of the county treasurer to the outside steps of the court house and at closing time, noon, the line was still about as long as when the office opened.

When closing time occurred, it was necessary for the crowd to gather in the corridor and still wait for some time before they could reach the window at which they could pay their taxes.

An exceedingly large amount of money was taken in during the rush. The taxes will be payable at face on Monday morning.

U. S. To Make Watershed Survey To Help Prevent Future Floods

By M. F. DACEY

International News Service Staff Correspondent

DENVER, July 30.—Representatives of the United States forest service in the Rocky Mountain region will start immediately on an extensive survey of drainage conditions on the northern watershed of the Mississippi valley in an effort to secure as quickly as possible all available information that may aid in flood prevention and control on the Father of Water—the Mississippi river.

The work of the Rocky Mountain foresters will be in conjunction with an exhaustive survey upon the location and area of forests needed on the Mississippi watershed as a part of a proposed flood prevention and control program to be worked out by the federal government.

The survey has been ordered by Col. William B. Greeley, chief forester, under the department of agriculture.

Emergency Job.

The work involved in this project has been assigned to representatives of the forest service in the field thruout the Mississippi valley. To the Rocky Mountain district, in charge of Allen S. Peck, district forester, have been allotted the Cheyenne, Niobrara, Platte and Kansas river drainages.

The survey has been declared an emergency job by the forest service officials, and the entire personnel of the service has been instructed to stand ready to lend a hand in speeding the big undertaking to completion. The survey will be completed by early fall.

The object of the survey, the chief forester states, is to bring out on this enormous drainage basin, the area or watersheds where on account of rainfall, character of soil, topography, etc., forest cover has an important protective value.

Factors Considered.

Considering especially character of soil, steepness of slope and character of precipitation, a rating will be given the protective value of forest cover as an element of the particular watershed. The plan is to eliminate watersheds where on account of these factors the maximum protective influence that a forest might exert would have a comparatively minor effect upon stream and flood conditions, and to locate the areas where, because of soil, topography and precipitation the effect of forest cover would be important.

The plan contemplates putting all this data as far as possible on a set of maps for ready consultation in the formulation of comprehensive plans for flood prevention and control in the Mississippi valley. The forest service data will be correlated with that of the war department and other agencies for the construction of reservoirs and other engineering methods of flood control.

E. A. Sherman, associate forester has been named by Colonel Greeley to direct the survay.

Ticket Agents Admit Omitting Taxable Profit

23 Brokers Must Pay U. S. $637,356 If Conviction Stands

NEW YORK, July 30.—Twenty-three individuals, representing eleven ticket agencies, pleaded guilty on Friday to charges that they had not reported the actual amounts they received for tickets and had not paid income taxes on the unreported amounts.

Coincident with the arraignment and pleas of the indicted brokers, United States Attorney Tuttle's investigation of agency practices, which has been under way for weeks, was adjourned indefinitely.

By a stipulation between counsel for the brokers and Tuttle, action on pleas will be made dependent on the result of appeals now being taken by Oscar and Edward Alexander, ticket brokers who stood trial on similar charges, were found guilty and were sentenced to serve six months.

Besides their bail of $1,000 each, the brokers were required to deposit with the court $42,500 to apply on possible fines and to deposit 50 per cent of the excess charges received from ticket sales since June 1.

If the conviction of the Alexanders is upheld, however, the twenty-three will pay the government back taxes totaling $637,356.80 and will also be fined.

Strong Homestead Grays To Play At Centennial Field Next Tuesday

LOCALS HARD HIT OVER WEEK-END

The Homestead Grays will be the attraction at Centennial field on next Tuesday evening August 2 it was announced today by the directors of the local club. The game is scheduled to start at 6:15 o'clock.

The last time the Grays appeared here the game was halted in the fifth inning by a sudden rain storm. The locals were ahead by a score of 5 to 3 when the game was called and were given credit with a victory.

With a double-header today and a Sunday game at Youngstown the locals will be hard hit for pitchers. It is likely that "Lefty" Feigert or Meis will twirl against the Grays here next Tuesday.

Tomorrow afternoon the New Castle-Youngstown team will play the Erie Sailors at Idora park, Youngstown. The game is called for 3 o'clock Eastern Standard time.

Veteran Slab Artists Defying Father Time

Connie Mack Uses "Jing" Johnson And Bender Plays With Johnstown.

Some of those old greybeards who basked in the glory of pitching fame back before the war, just simply refuse to let the youth of today crowd them from the picture.

During the last visit of the Athletics to New York, Connie Mack, whose passion for collecting rare antiques is now known from coast to coast, dug down among the moth balls and tossed out old "Jing" Johnson to the unsuspecting fans. "Jing," you may recall, passed from active big league pitching circles about the time that prohibition became the nation's greatest laugh. Mr. Johnson's return to the wars, however, was not the only incident that made old timers smile for the names of Chief Bender and Jack Warhop both figured prominently in recent editions of the press.

Redskin in Game.

Bender, the ancient Redskin who long ago was expected to confine his athletic endeavors to breaking clay pigeons at the traps, recently turned in a one-hit-no run victory for Johnstown in the Middle Atlantic circuit, while Warhop, a Yankee of the vintage of 1910, made Hartford go 17 innings to beat him, up in the Eastern league.

Each of these three veterans has a history of his own, Bender of course being by far the most famous of the trio. His career with the Athletics from 1903 to 1914 was one of the greatest in the game and for a man who has been devoting most of his time to coaching during the passing years, his recent shutout was a classic even though staged deep down amidst the bush. It's a long time since 1903 but the chief must still know how.

Johnson is Back.

Johnson's return reads like a novel from the pen of Charles Van Loan. He was let out by the Athletics back in 1919 and since that day has been known best as a big-league college coach. This June he brought a likely looking hurler that he had developed at Lehigh, over to Connie Mack, feeling that he might possibly interest his former leader. Mack didn't concede the kid a chance but he did like the way "Jing" looked when he threw some up himself, the result being that after an eight-year lapse the old right-hander is back in Phillie again.

Warhop Not Passe.

Warhop, a member of the Yanks from 1908 to 1915, has bene a stalwart figure in semi-pro and minor league circles for the past 12 years. Jack always seemed to have plenty of stuff left in the arm that brought him fame many years ago. We recall an exhibition he turned in against the Cincinnati Reds just a few seasons back while pitching for a small town team outside of New York City. Warhop was getting about all the money his club could pay for talent, yet with rather ordinary players giving him support, he turned the Redland sluggers back with just about four hits. The old boy's fast one was hopping that particular afternoon and it must still be skipping quite merrily at present. Seventeen innings against Eastern league hitting would so indicate at least.

Bender, Johnson and Warhop—"Cy" Young may yet quit the farm.

Veteran Hurler Still Winning

Harry Krause, Veteran Coast Pitcher Is Still Effective, Is 39.

By THOMAS R. CURRAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SAN FRANCISCO, July 30.—Although Harry Krause has been cranking up and shooting them over the plate for the past twenty years, the Oakland left-handed pitcher is leading the Pacific coast baseball league in effective hurling this season.

Krause broke into the big leagues in 1909 with Connie Mack's Athletics. In 1910 he won 18 games and lost eight. Troubled by a sore arm, however, Krause was then farmed out to Toledo. His baseball itinery since then has included assignments with Cleveland, Portland, Omaha, and finally Oakland where his spitball shots have helped the Oaks to lead the league most of the season.

Although he doesn't hope to equal the record of "Iron Man" McGinnity, who pitched winning ball at the venerable age of 52. Krause intends to keep on pitching till his arm gives out. He is now 39.

There are nineteen players in the coast circuit this year who are headed for the major leagues, Del Howard, business maanger of the Oakland team, believes. Nor are all the big time prospects on the Oakland squad, Howard generously admitted.

Such big league stars as Tony Lazerri, Paul Waner, Bob Meusel and unfortunate Jimmy O'Connell were coast league graduates.

A national boxing board, uniting California, New York, Illinois, Pennsylvania and Ohio bodies, was proposed today by Charles F. Traung, state boxing commissioner. Although there is at present a national federation of state boxing boards, neither California nor New York, the eastern and western centers of the game, belong to it.

Wilder-Conovers Trim Mail Men

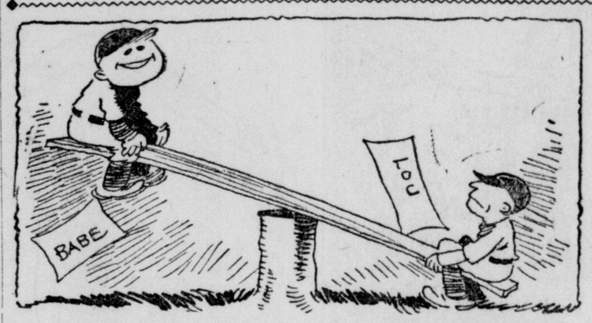

The Wilder-Conover Ice Cream company baseball team downed the Mail Carriers team 20 to 7, in a free-for-all slugging match, staged on the Buckeye Field on Friday night.

Hannon was on the hill for the Ice Cream makers, and Wilson adorned the mound for the Mail Carriers. Both pitchers were hit hard and often.

May Hold Fight At Ball Park

Directors of the New Castle O. & P. baseball team are reported to be considering the promotion of a 10-round boxing bout in late August at Centennial field. The boxing encounter would be a benefit for the ball team. Emmett Rocco, heavyweight of Ellwood City, may be one of the main [illegible] clinch.

Italian Stars To Play Monday

Richards' New Team Will Appear Against Troop B.

Tony Richards is the manager of a new baseball team which is to be known as the Italian All-Stars and which will open their career at 6:30 p. m. Monday against Troop B of the Twilight league in a game at Centennial field.

Richards is still business manager of the Independent A. A. which holds membership in the Lawrence County league. Some of the players whom Richards says are in the Italian lineup follow: General, captain; Cialella, Augostine, Richards, Mash, F. Ross, Pascarella, Simione, Turco, Hudson, Long,, Panella, Marino, Copple, S. Ross and Saglione.

The team is anxious to arrange games with first class teams and games will be played at Centennial field when the New Castle O. and P. team is playing away from home. The team will also play several preliminary games to the O. and P. contests, Richards says.

Games are wanted for August 2, 9, 10, 11, 12, 16, 17, 18, 19, 30, 31 and for the forepart of September. Games will be booked with teams in Lawrence, Beaver and Mercer counties. and Ryantown, Hillsville, Radiator works are also asked to get in touch with Manager Richards.

FORMER FRIENDS VIEW REMAINS OF EX-CHAMPION

NEW YORK, July 30.—Some of the friends his wife said deserted him in the declining years of his life Friday paid their respects to Freddie Welsh, former lightweight champion of the world, who was found dead in his hotel room here Thursday.

Among the first to visit the funeral parlor of Edward Devlin, West Side undertaker and fight fan, was Young Griffo, buddy of Welsh in the palmy days of their lightweight fistic careers. Devlin, who was appointed by Humbert Fugazy, promoter, to take charge of funeral arrangements for Welsh, found Young—not quite old—Griffo standing in front of the funeral parlor in tears.

Joe Lynch, one time bantam champion, also called. "I met Freddie only last week." Lynch said, "and he told me he was getting along fine. If I had known he was in need of money he could have had it from me."

There were other visitors of the boxing fraternity, many coming from Lou Stillman's gymnasium, their fighting togs tucked under their arms.

Welsh's body has been taken to Boyertown Chapel from whence he will be buried this afternoon.

BASEBALL FANS TO HONOR WALT

Secretary Of State Kellogg Will Aid In Big Celebration

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Secretary of State Kellogg will put aside foreign problems August 2 and pay tribute to the hero of a sport purely American. He has accepted an invitation to speak through a microphone at the American League Baseball park here on that day at ceremonies honoring Walter Johnson as he launched the 21st year of his major league pitching career.

The secretary said today he would be "proud" to stand at the plate and tell how Johnson "typifies the finest quality of American sportsmanship and citizenship."

It will be "Johnson Day" at the park. Two local firms will present a granite and bronze shaft to serve as a permanent monument to the "Big Train's" pitching achievements.

Billy Evans who umpired when Johnson pitched his first game for Washington against Detroit in 1907, will be on hand to do the same when Johnson again faces his Tiger rivals August 2.

Simmons May Be Lost To Athletics

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—Al Simmons, outfielder, who was leading the American League in batting when he was injured last Sunday in a game against Cleveland, may be lost to the Athletics for the remainder of the season. Manager Connie Mack says the club physician had informed him that Simmons probably would be unable to play baseball any more this year. Simmons hurt his groin sliding into second base.

Joe Choynski Says Feinting Lost Art

Fundamental Principles Of Boxing Are Disappearing According To "Past Greats", Including Choynski Who Claims That The Big Fellows Seem Content To Take A Punch In Order To Land A Blow.

By WALTER ECKERSALL

CHICAGO, July 30.—Fundamental principles of boxing are fast becoming a lost art, according to some of the greatest fighters who ever pulled on a glove.

Among those who regret the fact they are no longer in their heyday is Joe Choynski, once great heavyweight, who fought them all, including Jack Johnson, whom he knocked out. Choynski was a spectator at a heavyweight show staged in Chicago recently. Jim Maloney of Boston, Arthur De Kuh the Italian, Jack Sherry of New York and Big Boy Peterson were among the heavyweights who performed that night.

Choynski sat at the ringside. He did not miss a single move the big fellows made. He noticed how they pulled their arms back to hit, the lack of footwork, and knowledge of slipping punches. According to Joe, it was simply a give and take affair in each contest, with little boxing skill displayed.

Feinting a Lost Art.

"Feinting is one of the fundamental principles of boxing," Choynski said in commenting on the bouts. "Draw the other fellow's lead by feinting and then cross him. A fighter's hands, shoulders, or hips can be used for feinting, but none of the fighters who appeared on the Chicago card showed any signs of knowing the meaning of the word.

"Back in the old days even Jeffries knew a lot about feinting. The big fellow used his shoulders and hands to better advantage to draw a lead than most of the so-called clever fighters of the present day. Fitzsimmons was a great feinter, and so was Jim Corbett. Even Peter Maher and Gus Ruhlin knew how to draw their opponents' leads.

"It seems the big fellows take numbers of unnecessary punches. They seem content to take a punch to land one. They apparently have not been taught the art of slipping punches or how to pull away from or get inside of long swings. They appear to lack that fundamental schooling which most of the heavyweights of my day went thru before they were looked upon as finished products. Yes, I wish I might go back 25 years, I would be a millionaire within a year."

Demand Exorbitant Purses.

The money which the modern fighters receive is another thorn in the side of the old timers. In the old days the boys had to fight. A setup was rarely heard of in those days. In most cases the fighters were on a win or lose basis and they fought for the extra money which would go to the winner.

Bennie Yanger, known in the old days as the "Tipton Slasher", and regarded as one of the hardest body punchers in the lightweight division, once boxed Abe Attel in New Orleans. George Siler was the referee. The fighters had agreed that if Siler could not render a decision at the end of 15 rounds the fight should go five extra stanzas.

For eight rounds of that fight Attel cut Yanger to ribbons. Bennie's eyes and nose were badly puffed and it looked like a lost cause for the "Tipton Slasher". Beginning with the ninth round, the terrific punching which Attel had received around the body started to tell. Gradually Yanger whittled him down and scored so many points that Siler called the affair a draw at the end of 15 rounds.

How Purses Have Increased.

In the 19th round Yanger finally stopped his man, but Bennie was a badly marked fighter. That fight was held in 1902 and Yanger received less than $1,000 for his end. When Sammy Mandell won the lightweight title from Rocky Kansas a year ago the latter received $50,000. Mandell demanded and received the same amount for defending his title against Phil McGraw in Detroit recently.

Exhorbitant guarantees were not in vogue in the olden days, and fighters took a chance with promoters by working on a percentage basis. Today the fighters demand so much money there is little left for the promoter. Most of them finish in the red and this is one of the reasons there are so few successful promoters.

CHURCH BODY OPPOSES FIGHT

Chicago Federation Wants Soldiers Field Closed To Battle

CHICAGO, July 30.—A public protest against holding the Tunney-Dempsey fight in Chicago and especially against the sacrilege of allowing Soldiers' field to be used for staging it, has been made by the Chicago Church Federation by its president, Dr. John R. Nichols.

The denunciation of the proposed match compares it to a "pilgrimage to lay a wreath on the grave of Benedict Arnold" and recalls that the same plot not long ago was the vast outdoor cathedral of the Eucharist Congress of the Catholic church.

"Prize fighting has only recently succeeded staging a comeback," said Dr. Nichols' statement, "but under the guise of sportsmanship it has returned in all its viciousness."

The American Legion of Illinois will neither oppose nor support the movement to bring the Dempsey-Tunney championship fight to Soldiers' field, Chicago, Ferre C. Watkins, state commander, has declared. Commander Watkins' decision was made after a meeting with various local commanders.

Martha Norelius Adds 440-Yard Title To Honors

MASSAPQUA, N. Y., July 30.—Continuing a sensational drive for all-around supremacy among women swimmers, Miss Martha Norelius, ace of the Women's Swimming association of New York, Friday added the National A. A. U. 440-yard free style title to her swimming list of honors, gained in the annual championships at the Biltmore outdoor pool here. She won the 100-meter and mile championships Thursday, smashing three world's records and two American women's swimming standards. Friday she shattered by three seconds the American long course record for the double furlong made by Gertrude Ederle in 1922.

Covering the distance in 5:57 1-5, Miss Norelius outclassed a field of six.

Swimming far behind her in the 440 event Miss Mae Cutnell of Homestead, Pa., broke up complete New York domination by copping third place. Miss Ethel McGary was second.

Famous Fighters Attend Funeral Of Late Champion

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 30.—The hand that tore the lightweight crown from the brow of Freddie Welsh ten years ago and other hands that have been extended to him in hostile gestures will help to bear all that is mortal of the former world's champion to a final resting place today.

Members of the boxing fraternity, including former champions and near champions who tested their skill against him in the ring, meet this afternoon to pay a final tribute to Welsh, who died here suddenly last Thursday.

Among the pall-bearers will be Benny Leonard, who won the lightweight title from Welsh and retired undefeated two years ago, Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, Johnny Dundee, Attell and Promoter Humbert Fugazy.

Pirates' Rally Trims Dodgers

Waner Brothers And Glenn Wright Star For Pirates.

VICTORY APPEARS IN LAST FRAME

PITTSBURGH, July 30.—The Pirates are still at the head of the National League, having downed the Dodgers in a whirlwind finish, four to three, at Forbes field Friday afternoon.

The Pirates went into the last of the ninth with only one run, and indications were that the Brooklynites would leave the field with a victory attached to their belts.

With the three to one L. Waner singled in the ninth, Grantham went out, but Paul Waner doubled against the right field wall and sent his brother scampering home.

This started the scoring and Traynor's hit went for a scratch triple and P. Waner scored. Clark took Plitt's place and he intentionally passed Cuyler and Harris.

Hits Ball on Seam

Wright went to the home plate, hit the apple on the nose and the ball crashed against the right field stands, sending Traynor home with the winning run.

Kremer pitched eight innings and Dawson flung one frame, while Clark had a chance to pitch to three batters, but it was enough to help Plitt lose the game.

The Waner boys and Wright featured for Pittsburgh, but the sad part of it all is, the Cubs kept up their stride by defeating the Giants and are only 10 points behind the Pirates.

PITCHERS WHO HIT

BY FEG MURRAY

Copyright, 1927, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

Not all the pitchers walk up to the plate and go out on three strikes or an easy pop-up when their turn at bat comes around. Not by a long shot! Many a batting order carries a surprising kick in its tail-end, in the person of some hurler who is unwilling to let his work on the mound alone go as his contribution towards winning the game. Each year there are about a dozen pitchers who finish the season with an average of over .300, and 1927 should prove no exception.

If men like Ruth, Gehrig, Speaker, Bressler, Roush, Rice, Miller, Goslin, Jameson, Meusel and Falk began as pitchers, and ended up hard hitters, why can't a lot of the present day hurlers look forward to a successful career as Sultans of Swat, after their pitching arms are through, or as soon as they can prove themselves more valuable at the plate every day than in the box occasionally?

Carl Mays, Dutch Henry, Pete Donohue, Jack Scott, Dan MacFayden, Joe Shaute, Sam Gibson, George Uhle, Hollis Thurston and Dutch Ruether have all proved themselves proficient with the willow, and pride themselves on their hits as much as on their pitching victories.

Sam Gibson of Detroit, Jack Scott of the Phillies and Dazzy Vance of the Dodgers are three pitchers who have made four hits out of four times at the bat in one game this year. Gibson, Scott and Carl Mays of the Reds all belong to that unusual class of individual who pitches right-handed, yet bats left-handed. When old Jack Scott beat the Giants on April 14 at Philadelphia, his four hits, including a double and a home run, made eight successive times, including his last game in 1926, in which he had gone to the plate and hit safely.

Home runs among pitchers are rare occasions. Ray Kremer got one in a game in which he beat the Reds early in the year, yet the records show that the four-base wallop by a mound star is as scarce as Ku Klux Klan membership among the Hakoah soccer team. Buckeye of Cleveland and Kaufmann of the Cubs each hit two homers in one game in 1925, yet Buckeye got only two more in the whole saeson of 1926. Jess Haines' homer in the last world series is well-remembered, but there are very few other circuit clouts by pitchers that you can think of.

Yes, some of the pitchers can hit!

Feg Murray Says—

What some enterprising publisher should get out next is a book entitled "What the swell-dressed golfer should wear."

Babe Ruth Seeks Hitting Honors

Famous Slugger Seeks To Top American League Batters This Year.

INDIANS DOWN YANKS 6 To 4

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, July 30—While he has by no means abandoned his home run duel with Buster Gehrig Babe Ruth's chief ambition just at present apparently is to win the American League batting championship this season. By concentrating on place hitting in his last fifteen games, the big slugger has delivered twenty-seven hits for an average well above .500. In a double-header recently he made seven hits in eight times at bat and yesterday he batted 1.000, advancing to within ten points of Al Simmons, the league's leading hitter.

The Babe's new system is to get one or two Texas leaguers in the early part of the game, and then go after the homers. In this manner he improves his batting percentage and also placates the fans in "Ruthville", the right field bleachers.

Babe and the other Yanks hit well enough against Cleveland yesterday, but lost 6 to 4 because Pitcher Willis Hudlin was effective in the pinches.

The Red Sox, who had not beaten St. Louis all season, trounced the Brownies 1 to 2. A triple steal by Rothrock, Myer and Flagstead featured a six-run rally in the seventh.

The Senators clinched their hold on second place by nosing out the Tigers in the eleventh, 5 to 4. Speaker's single broke up the game.

Connie Mack's Athletics, in the throes of a disastrous slump, lost to the White Sox, 6 to 4. In the fourth inning the Sox put the bee on the veteran Jing Johnson, who is essaying a comeback.

The National League remained unchanged, as the Pirates, Cubs and Cardinals all won. The Cards swept the series with the Phillies, Haines allowing only four hits and winning 6 to 3 for his fifteenth victory of the season.

A three run rally in the ninth, featured by Traynor's triple staked the Pirates to a 4 to 3 win over Brooklyn.

After making a homer and a double, Stephenson singled in the tenth with the bases full and the Cubs nosed out the Giants 5 to 4. Cummings, New York catcher, suffered a broken nose when Sparky Adams, midget Cub infielder slid into him.

The Reds were leading the Braves 2 to 0 when rain stopped the game in the fourth inning.

Turco Pitches Rieck-McJunkin Team To Brilliant Victory

Tommy Blake's Rieck-McJunkin baseball team added another victory to their string last night at the Clifton Flats field by downing the strong Clifton Flats team 3 to 1. The ten game winning streak of the Flats team was broken.

The Flats boys tallied a lone marker in the first chapter and held the advantage until the start of the seventh inning when the ice cream makers jumped on VanEman for enough hits to produce three runs.

Turco on the knoll for the Rieck team pitched a fine game limiting the Flats team to five hits and fanning nine of the opposing batsmen. VanEman on the hill for the Flats team also pitched a steady game. Turco had the only extra base hit of the game.

Quick Steps To Play Woodlawn

New Castle Quick Steps will battle the Woodlawn Grays tonight, at 6 o'clock at Centennial Field.

The Quick Steps recently defeated the Woodlawn team at Woodlawn, and they hope to annex another victory.

SORDS POINTS

Now Helen Plans To Reign In Her Own Court

By NORMAN E. BROWN

Helen Wills, back in her homeland with the unofficial title of "world's greatest amateur women's tennis player," has scheduled the program which she hopes will bring her back the American women's championship, which she lost by default last season due to her operation.

Her spectacular victory at Wimbledon, while it convinced her and her friends that she is back at and above the peak of her 1926 game—before her enforced withdrawal—does not make her happiness complete. She is eager to add the American title to her year's efforts and officially rule both lands.

Her program leading up to the national tourney next fall calls for four tournament appearances. After the immediate Essex County Country club tourney at Manchester-by-the-Sea she will go into the Seabright tourney, and then after the eastern sectional title. Then come the international Wightman cup matches. Then the national meet.

Miss Wills will meet the cream of the American women netters in the defense of her title—as well as members of the British Wightman team. Miss Betty Nuthall, the young British miss who was the sensation of the season at Wimbledon, is already in this country and efforts are being made to have her extend her visit until the national tourney.

Incidentally the California miss would have it known that she has her heart set upon just one matter at this time—the return to the American tennis throne. She ends all references to the possible success of Daniel Cupid in entering her thoughts by suggesting that "such talk is silly."

Those who know "Little Miss Poker Face" best believe that tennis and her sketching interests divide her time at present.

Church League Schedule For Next Week Revised

J. W. Carson, president of the New Castle Church League, today announced a schedule change for the loop for next week. It is asked that all managers make announcements of the change in the churches on Sunday. A meeting of the board of managers for Tuesday night at 8:15 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. was also announced.

Following is the revised schedule to be followed out:

Monday, Aug. 1

First Christians vs. First Baptist, Colonial field.

Central Christians vs. Epworth M. E., Lehigh field.

Tuesday, Aug. 2

First M. E. vs. Central Presbyterians, Colonial field.

First Baptist vs. Third U. P., Lehigh field.

Thursday, Aug. 4

First Baptist vs. First M. E., Colonial field.

Third U. P. vs. First Christians, Lehigh field.

Friday, Aug. 5

First M. E. vs. Croton M. E., Colonial field.

First Christian vs. Central Presbyterians, Lehigh field.

HALL of FAME

By NORMAN E. BROWN.
Nominating BENNY KARR.

Because he's bald and proud of it.

Because he has carried the worries of a pitcher around the country long enough to come honorably by his lack of hair.

Because he early decided that the way to stick in baseball was to make the Southern Association the basis of operations. He started in the circuit—with Memphis in 1914.

Because, after tryouts with Detroit and San Francisco, he went back to Mobile in the Southern, moved over to Chattanooga, took a whirl in the Texas League and the army and then went back to Little Rock in the Southern.

Because he labored with the Red Sox for three years and the Yanks for one—and then drifted back again—to Atlanta.

Because, after taking another whirl in the big show for two years with the Cleveland Indians he finds himself back in the S. A. again, this time with New Orleans.

And because he celebrated his return by winning three ball games in one week. Which may explain why he's always welcome in that league.

Davis Cup Team Is Announced By Tennis Officials

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 30.—His brilliant play recently in the National Clay Court championship and the Illinois State Championship has won John Hennessey of Indianapolis a place on the United States Davis Cup squad, it was announced today by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Simultaneously it was made known that the selection committee has named Charles S. Garland non-playing captain of the 1927 Davis Cup team at the suggestion of several of the leading players of the squad.

SCOTLAND WINS FEATURE RACE AT KALAMAZOO

KALAMAZOO, Mich., July 30.—The black colt, Scotland, owned by Henry Oliver of Pittsburgh and driven by Tom Murphy, was the sensation of the closing program of the Grand Circuit meeting at Recreation park Friday. Starting for the money for the first time he beat a small though select field of 2-year-olds and trotted the first heat in 2:06½, the fastest mile trotted by one of the age in two seasons. Finishing at his heel was Fire Glow, from the Cox stable, also making his initial start, he being separately timed in 2:06 3-4. The final heat, in 1:02 1-4, was easy for Scotland.

CHEVROLET
for Economical Transportation

So Roomy . . .
So Comfortable . . .
So Easy to Drive . . .
wherever you go

Here is a low-priced automobile that motorists are enthusiastically driving on the longest tours—day after day, over all types of roads, in perfect comfort!

Come to our salesroom and see for yourself the ample room in each model for a capacity load of passengers. Test the deep, restful seats—pitched at the proper angle to encourage relaxation. Note the large, easily-regulated plate glass windows and the patented Fisher VV windshield.

Then take the wheel of your favorite model and go for a drive. Try every point in the speed range for smoothness of operation. Note the balanced feel of the wheel in your hands—the surety with which the car hugs the road.

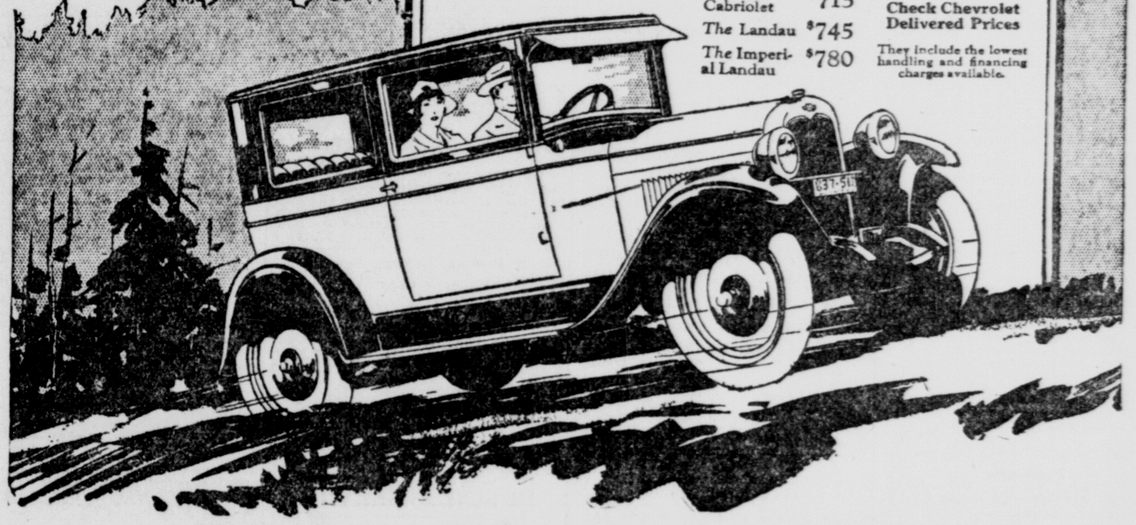

Enjoy the cradled riding ease, provided by the semi-elliptic chrome vanadium steel springs—88% as long as the wheelbase!

Place your order now—and have your Chevrolet during the finest part of the touring season. We have a car ready for you. Come in today—and drive it!

Lawrence Indies Trim Hillsville

S. Zidow Bests Gwin In Pitchers Duel As League Leaders Take Victory

The Lawrence Indies defeated the Hillsville team of the Twilight League, 1 to 0, in a fast game, played on Thursday night at the Hillsville field. The victory just about cinches the pennant for the Indies in the final half of the season.

The game was a pitchers battle between S. Zidow and Gwin, with the former having the better of the argument. Gwin limited the Indies to two hits, while Zidow held the the Hillsville boys to three hits.

Komarc's double in the seventh inning scoring Bogdon who had previously singled gave the league leaders their victory.

The box score:—

Tilden In Play For Tennis Title

GLENCOE, Ill., July 30.—William T. Tilden, 2nd of Philadelphia and Johnny Hennessey, of Indianapolis, meet today at the Illinois State Tennis title at the Skokie Country Club here.

This marks the second time in two weeks that Tilden had encountered Hennessey in a title match. Big Bill defeated the Indiana youth in Detroit for the National Clay Court Championship.

Wray Brown, Missouri Valley champion, forced Tilden to five sets in the semi-final round before the first ranking player in the country could win. The score was 3-6, 6-4, 5-7, 6-0, 10-8. Tilden played listless tennis until the final set when he staged a brilliant rally. Brown's severe chop stroke bothered the champion in the early sets.

Hennessey crushed Al Chapin, the 1926 singles champion in straight sets 6-1, 6-4, 6-0. Hennessey resorted to a cross-court game, chasing Chapin from corner to corner and from the forecourt to the baseline. The final set was an easy go for the Indiana player.

Don't despair of feeling important. Nothing else tickles the ego as a sense of righteousness does, and anybody can cultivate that.

Of course it's disagreeable to breathe the other car's dust, but it's so much worse to bite into a roadside clay bank.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

After Gettysburg.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

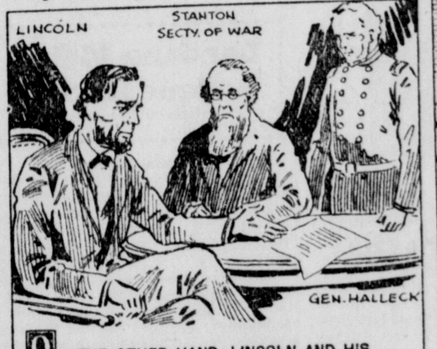

Registered U. S. Patent Office.

THE UNION VICTORY AT GETTYSBURG RAISED THE SPIRIT OF THE FEDERAL ARMY AND ENCOURAGED THE PEOPLE OF THE NORTH TO PRESS THE WAR TO A SUCCESSFUL CONCLUSION. NORTHERN BANKERS NOW LENT TO THE GOVERNMENT FREELY. GETTYSBURG AND VICKSBURG WERE CRUSHING BLOWS TO THE SOUTHERN CAUSE, AND MARKED THE TURNING POINT OF THE WAR.

BUT THE SOUTH REFUSED TO ACKNOWLEDGE DEFEAT OR EVEN DISTRESS, AND WAS DETERMINED TO FIGHT TO THE FINISH. GEN. LEE THOUGHT HE SHOULD RESIGN, BUT HIS ORDERLY WITHDRAWAL ACROSS THE POTOMAC, KEEPING HIS FORCES INTACT, WAS HAILED BY THE SOUTHERN PRESS AS SOMEWHAT OF A TRIUMPH, AND THE CONFEDERATE PUBLIC KEPT THEIR OLD CONFIDENCE IN HIM.

ON THE OTHER HAND, LINCOLN AND HIS CHIEFS WERE GREATLY DISAPPOINTED THAT MEADE HAD NOT FOLLOWED LEE AFTER GETTYSBURG AND STRUCK THE CONFEDERATE ARMY A CRUSHING BLOW BEFORE IT RECROSSED THE POTOMAC. MEADE, HOWEVER, WAS BESET WITH PROBLEMS, AND HAD DONE HIS BEST UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.

MEADE WAS NOT RELIEVED OF HIS COMMAND, AND MOVED HIS ARMY SOUTHWARD INTO VIRGINIA. DURING THE FALL OF 1863 THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC HAD A FEW SKIRMISHES WITH THE CONFEDERATES, AND, LATER, WENT INTO WINTER QUARTERS AT CULPEPER, 75 MILES FROM RICHMOND.

AN ORDINANCE

Providing for the grading of Mulberry Street in the Third Ward, between Brooklyn Avenue and Cleveland Avenue and for the payment of the damages, costs and expenses thereof and for the assessment thereof upon the abutting properties.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the Council of the City of New Castle, Pa., that the cartway of Mulberry Street in the Third Ward of said City, between Brooklyn Avenue and Rock Avenue, be reduced to grade, and from Rock Avenue to Cleveland Avenue be graded its entire width, at the cost and expense of the abutting property owners, according to benefits, against which properties the said costs and expenses are hereby assessed, and the same are appropriated to the payment of the said work, which is to be done and paid for subject to the provisions of the "General Improvement Ordinance", of the said City, and its supplements and amendments, and other ordinances of the said City pertaining to grading. All damages resulting from the said improvement shall be assessed and paid for in the manner provided by law.

I, Cordelia Zeigler Jones, City Clerk, do hereby certify that the above and foregoing ordinance has been regularly introduced and is now pending in the council of the city of New Castle, Pa. In witness whereof, I hereunto set my hand and affix the seal of the city, this 30th day of July, 1927.

CORDELIA ZEIGLER JONES,
City Clerk.

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, July 30.—Though week-end profit taking made its appearance in good volume in the short session of the market today, prices of representative railroad and industrial stocks maintained a firm and even tone, and new advances were inaugurated in various sections of the speculative list.

The mercantile and industrial reviews pointed out the improvement in general business conditions, with the promising outlook for the fall trade. Benefical weather conditions in the crop districts had their effect in the wheat and cotton fields, while corn has not fared quite so well. The buying power of the agricultural districts will be well up to expectations this fall, and this is always a big factor in the prosperity of the country as a whole.

Aggressive buying of Hudson Motor in the first hour, principally by Detroit investors and industrial leaders, was responsible for the new 3-point rise in the stock to above 88. General Motors was in demand around 226, while Studebaker and Chrysler scored new fractional gains in active trading.

The Merger railroad stocks came in for more attention than they have received in a week or more. Erie common and first preferred were well bought at the highest range of the year to date. Southern Pacific was the feature of the investment rails, its rise to 124, the highest price in 16 years being stimulated by the expectation of an advance in its dividend rate from 6 to 7 per cent. Baltimore and Ohio, New York Central and other of the investment rails, made moderate advances into higher price territory.

Wall Street looks for a lower money market as soon as the August settlements have been completed, about the middle of next week. It is believed that the reduction of the Kansas City Reserve Bank rediscount rate to 3 1-2 per cent. will set the pace for other reserve banks, and the sharp decline of bankers acceptance rates in New York substantiate that position. Easy money at this time of year is one of the most important stock market factors making for higher stock prices.

Mrs. McGregor Is Hurt; Falls Out Of Second Floor Widow

About 1:30 o'clock this afternoon Mrs. Gertrude S. McGregor, wife of James W. McGregor, manager of the McGregor Taxicab company, fell out of the second floor apartment in which they reside at 102½ South Jefferson street, and was injured.

She was removed at once to the New Castle hospital by her husband and at the time of going to press the full extent of her injuries had not been determined. While the indications were that her injuries were not serious, it had not yet been determined.

Mrs. McGregor was leaning out of the front window of the apartment, with one hand on a horn, which is used in calling the taxicab drivers. The horn collapsed and Mrs. McGregor, who had been leaning to some extent on it, lost her balance and went headfirst out of the window.

Fortunately for her, the awning of the Marlin store on the first floor was down and she landed in it first, this breaking her fall, after which she fell to the sidewalk.

J. Ogden Armour Is Unchanged Says Word From London

Bobby Jones May Retire From Golf; Will Study Law

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 30.—Bobby Jones, who won the British open golf championship, and who arrived here on board the liner Aquitania, declared today he did not think he would return to Great Britain next year to defend his title. Bobby—or Robert Tyre Jones, as he was christened—wants to buckle down to his law studies and get his shingle out as soon as possible. The golf champion plans to leave for his home at Atlanta, Ga., either today or tomorrow.

With Jones were his father, Robert S. Jones; Stewart Maiden, the Atlanta professional who taught the champion golf, and Joe Kirkwood American professional, who finished fourth in the open championship which Jones won at St. Andrews.

Rickard To Soon Announce Site Of Heavyweight Battle

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 30.—Some time Monday is set as the zero hour when Chicago fight fans will learn whether they must spend car fare to New York to see the Tunney-Dempsey heavyweight title match or whether it will be staged in their own front yard at Soldiers' Memorial Stadium.

Tex Rickard, New York's expanding fight promoter, has virtually promised to enlighten a breathless world on that date. That his announcement will be good news for Chicago, the roaming promoter makes little effort to keep secret.

The recent release of Leslie Mann by the Boston Braves presages the end of one of the greatest hitters in baseball—against left-handed pitching.

His ability to clout all and sundry southpaws with regularity and disaster kept Mann in the big show many years. Never quite good enough as an all-around player to climb to the heights he held down berths with the Chicago Cubs, St. Louis Cardinals, Reds and then the Braves, because of his usefulness as a utility player—and his ability to solve the weird heaves of the port siders.

Mann probably will go into the coaching business. He has had considerable experience as a mentor. Incidentialy he is one of the "old timers" who took a fling in the Federal league when that outfit was started—to throw baseball into its greatest war.

That the Washington Senators are striving vainly to keep the bottom from dropping out of their outfit before closing days of September is indicated by the fact that the club has taken waivers on two southpaw hurlers, Charley Willis, late of the Athletics and Edwin Wells, Detroiter.

The release of Wells at the waiver figure by the Tigers is of more than passing interest. Wells, picked up by the Jungaleers a few years ago soon blossomed into a promising hurler. Earl Whitehill and Wells together formed the bulwark of the Detroit team at one period—though a brief one.

As for Willis. Well, he's just another one of the thousand and one hurlers Connie has taken on in an effort to find a crew that might compare somewhat to Coombs, Plank et al

The other day Red Lucas Cincinati hurler came within one little bingle of turning in a no-hit game for himself and his playmates. Hank DeBerry of the Dodgers spoiled the day for "Red" by getting a scratch hit in the sixth inning. Only two men reached first. The other got on when Hughie Critz booted a grounder

Which recalls the fact that when the Boston Braves got hold of Lucas a few years ago from the minors they decided he would be worth more as second baseman than as a pitcher. They gave him a thorough trial at infielding.

Now I'm wondering just how much brilliant pitching Davey Bancroft lost by monkeying around with "Red" as in infielder.

When the St. Louis Browns blew into New York the other day on their second invasion of the east Dan Howley's team had faced the plunging Yankees just eleven times—and had lost just that many games. In other words the westerners furnished Huggins team about as much oposition as a Nicaraguan revolt would the United States.

The Browns play generally this year indicates that the American league representatives of the Missouri city are still a long way from the pennant which has eluded them to date. Howley so far can feel little cheered by the progress he has made. But he need not feel discouraged .Men like Jimmy McAleer, Jack O'Connor, Bobby Wallace, George Stovall, Branch Rickey and Fielder Jones labored in vain to place the club at the tip. Then for four or five years the Brown bosses tried this and that pilot until George Sisler drew his great opportunity. He failed to enter the ranks of the successful managers. Howley was signed last winter on the strength of his success in building up a pennant winning team at Toronto to displace the long ruling Baltimore Orioles.

Ten Are Ready For Sea Race

Good Weather Likely To Bring Spirited Rivalry Soon.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Continuation of the present unfavorable weather for long distance flying increase the possibility that during the next six weeks a score of aviators may all be flying over the Atlantic at the same time, more than half of them westward bound from Europe.

At present plans are under way for trans-Atlantic crossings in 10 planes, each carrying from one to four men. The only woman aviator who has announced intention of attempting the Atlantic flight, Thea Rasche, does not plan to embark on her adventure until next year.

French To Race

The flights which might conceivably all begin at the same time should the weather cause further delays are as follows:

Captain Frank T. Courtney, British ace, only awaits favorable weather at Calshot, England, to attempt the perilous western passage, never yet accomplished, in a Dornier flying boat with two companions.

Maurice Drouhin, French flier, will be ready in 10 days to pilot Chas. Levine back along the course flown in the eastward direction in the same plane by Levine and Clarence Chamberlin.

Leon Givon, another Frenchman, has completed preliminary tests of the Farman plane "Blue Bird," in which he hopes to beat Drouhin to New York. The plane was taken to Le Bourget flying field today.

Fronck To Try Again

Three German planes are expected to attempt hops to America within the next few weeks. Otto Koennecke and Count George Solms Laubach expect to fly a Caspar biplane over the ocean and it was indicated today that two Junker monoplanes will try the crossing together, piloted by Friederich Loose and Johann Ristiez, who have been making endurance tests.

Besides these six planes which conceivably might compose a great race over the westward course, two planes are completing preparations for flights from this country to Europe and two others from Canada to the continent.

The planes to leave from here are Rene Fonck Sikorsky and the Fokker to be flown by Lloyd Bertaud and James D. Hill, air mail pilots. Fonck's plane probably will hold a crew of four as did his last year's ship, which overturned and burned at the takeoff killing two men. Fonck's destination will be Paris and Bertaud's Rome. Both planes will be taken to Roosevelt Field within the next few days.

Phil Wood, brother of Gar Wood, sped boat racer is planning a flight with Lieut. "Duke" Schiller from Windsor, Ont., to Windsor Castle, Eng. Besides this it is also reported that Captain M. L. Janney is preparing for an Ottawa to London flight.

The possibility that all these planes might get into the air at the same time is of course slight, but because of their number and the natural spirit of rivalry among them it is believed likely that at least several of them may begin their flights almost simultaneously and that spirited races across the sea will result.

Spray Potatoes For Blight Now

Ravages of the late blight to the potato crop may be warded off by conscientious and diligent spraying with bordeaux mixture, says the School of Agriculture of Pennsylvania State College.

Sufficient pressure should be applied in the spraying operation so that 125 gallons per acre are used.

AND THEN—!

"Officer! A man just stole my car! Did you see which way he went?"

"Was it a Blooie sedan?"

"No; a Junkett sport roadster.

"Oh, a Junkett! Let's see now, yellow with purple spots?"

"Yes, yes."

"With a couple of extra tires?"

"Yes, and it had the top down."

"And it had a motometer on the radiator cap?"

"That's it! Which way did he go?"

"Did it have a spotlight in the windshield?"

"Yes! How long ago did you see it?"

"I didn't see it at all; I was just curious."

It isn't every aviator who can fly out and shatter a record, but it's dogoned easy for them to shatter something.—Los Angeles Daily Times.

134th Regiment To Have Reunion

Annual Gathering To Take Place At Pulaski On August 16.

ARRANGEMENTS ARE BEING MADE

The forty-fifth annual reunion of the 134th Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, will be held in the Pulaski Presbyterian church, Pulaski, Lawrence County, Penna., on Tuesday, August 16, 1927.

A business meeting will be held at 10:30 a. m. The comrades, comrades' wives and widows of comrades will be banqueted by the church people of Pulaski. Lunch will be served to all others who attend if desired. After lunch the campfire will be held. The widows, sons and daughters are urged to attend this reunion.

Comrades who served in other commands and regiments are invited to come and join with the comrades of the 134th Regiment in this their annual reunion.

A son of a comrade will make the annual patriotic address and the President will also address the comrades; also comrades will tell of their personal experience in those days of following the flag that this nation might endure.

The 134th Regiment was organized soon after the beginning of the Civil War. It included four companies from Butler and two companies from Beaver County.

It was first commanded by Col. M. S. Quay of Beaver, Pa., who was forced to resign on account of his health, a short time after the organization. He was succeeded by Col. Edward O'Brien of New Castle, Pa.

Among the engagements that the Regiment took part in were Antietam and South Mountain, Fredericksburg and Chancellorsville.

Rev. S. F. Forgeus is president of the organization, Wm. W. Stevenson, Esq., Secretary, 6 Dean Block, New Castle, Pa.

NEW YORK, July 30.—Mrs. Joseph Pulitzer, 74, widow of the founder of the present New York World and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, died today at Deauville, France. She had been ill less than a week, and was in the company of the youngest of her seven children, Herbert and his wife.

Mrs. Pulitzer had lived abroad much of the time during the latter years of her life, as her health necessitated the frequent taking of treatment in both France and Germany.

ABE MARTIN On Educated Boys

PUTTIN' IT UP T' PAW

Ther' used t' be an ole sayin' that a boy'll raise himself, that is, he'd keep out o' jail while growin' up an' finally raise a moustache an' strike out. But that wuz in th' days when rich an' indulgent parents were few an' widely scattered, the days when th' average father wuz goin' some if he wuz able t' give his son a top fer Christmus, an' mebbe an orange on his birthday. All th' big, successful, worthwhile men o' t'day were developed in th' school o' hard knocks. They've been thro' th' mill, an' they owe ther success t' th' jolts they got in th' school of experience. An' the funny thing is that th' great majority of 'em don't want ther sons "t' have t' go thro' all that they had t' go thro'." They seem t' want 'em t' take some shorter an' pleasanter route t' success. Folks used t' dread t' see ther sons put on long pants, but t'day they seem t' dread t' see 'em go t' work. "My, I hate t' see Albert have t' earn his own way. Hain't ther some good place you kin git him in? Don't you know somebuddy that'll give him a position where his time 'll be his own?" some fond, deluded mother 'll say. "Well, if he's tired o' college I'll see if I can't git him a political job t' play at. I certainly don't want him t' go thro 'all I did. Can't he think o' some other kind of a school he'd like t' go to?" paw 'll say. Lester Small wuz thirty-four years ole yisterday an' decided t' settle down an' take a flyer at a drug store job durin' th' sody rush season. "I jest had t' cry when I put his saxophone an' tennis racket an' other playthings away," said his mother. It wuz thought fer awhile that Kenneth Mopps, who's spent some eleven years away from home at school, had gone t' work, but his father corrected th' rumor with a statement in th' newspaper sayin' his son is a bond salesman. Joe Kite's son is a fine lookin' big strappin' feller around thirty. He seems t' think a lot of his dad, an' when he's home from financial school he walks as fer as th' brick yard with his father ever' mornin' and meets him in th' evenin'. After he gits out o' financial school his father 'll send him t' Europe t' broaden him. His father bought him a divorce from an actress last week, an' had his car all overhauled. "Poor boy, ther's jest no kind o' work he wants t' do," said Mrs. Leghorn Tharp, t'day, speakin' of her son Maurice. "His father said t' him when he come home from three years in an engineerin' school, 'Now Maurice, if you kin think o' somethin' you'd like t' take up, or be identified with, jest let me know,' but th' poor boy has allus been in school an' knows nothin' about anything. He's a great oarsman, an' I'm in favor o' letting him stick at that." Dewey Pusey's father give him a big, long roadster when he graduated from th' Boston School o' Technology, an' his mother said, "Paw, don't you think Dewey ought t' git int' somethin' besides sleepin' till noon ever' day now's he's out o' school?" an' paw replied, "I don't know, but I certainly don't want any more millionaires in th' family after all I had t' go thro'."

Near Hardware Store Is Found In Steers Stomach

BOYERTOWN, Pa., July 30.—Eighteen nails, three pieces of wire, eighteen stones, a steel washer, one nut, one screw, one piece of shrapnel, and two 45-Caliber bullets, never discharged, were all in the stomach of one healthy 1,000 pound steer, when he was slaughtered in the abbattoir of C. G. Rhoads of New Berlinville.

The stomach of the animal surprised the butchers by its size and weight, and when it was opened the above named articles were disclosed.

FEW MEN KNOW HOW—

To ask intelligent questions.
To speak truth to the great and powerful.
To take defeat without whimpering and victory without boasting.
To tell other men how to succeed though many men try.
To forget personal wounds in their fights for great causes.
To give criticism and keep the friendship of those they criticize.
To put great ideas into simple language, because that is greatness itself.
